Lawyers' suggested fee guide soon—

A suggested fee schedule, designed as a guideline for Halton lawyers and their clients, may soon be available, according to the president of the Halton County Law Association.

Noel Bates said the recent decision by the Supreme Court of Canada upholding law societies' right to restrict advertising by lawyers was a fair judgement in his opinion, but he can understand the desire of the general public to know more about legal fees and services.

As a result, the Halton County Law Society, depending upon a decision by the organization's executive committee, will compile a list of legal services and a reasonable cost for them. "It will not be something to be strictly adhered to. It will be an indication to the lawyer and the client of what the cost should be close to and the services included in that cost," Mr. Bates explained.

The public is entitled to have an idea of the cost of legal services, said Bates, but advertising those costs is a different matter. Mr. Bates explained advertising rates over-emphasizes the dollars involved in legal services and not the service involved.

Two grants from Arts Council

The Halton Hills Arts Council and Georgetown University Women's Club were among organizations receiving grants from the Ontario Arts Council which parcelled out a total of $5,385,888 to 343 arts organizations and 139 individuals.

Halton Hills Arts Council received a grant of $1,135 while the University Women's Club received $1,167.

$3,000 aids fund

The campaign to raise funds for the Crawford Lake Indian Village and Conservation Centre is moving into high gear, with a donation of $3,000 from Brian Thackeray of Hopedale Developments Limited of Oakville. Donations have reached over $80,000 since the campaign started in May, 1982.

The campaign to raise $700,000 is being sought by volunteer members of the Halton Region Conservation Foundation.

Meanderings

Serve a great breakfast now that peaches are plentiful. Slice up a bowl of fresh peaches and add a bit of sugar. Make up your favorite crepe recipe. Here's an easy one.

Put a cup of flour in a bowl with a sprinkling of salt and a teaspoon of sugar—make a well and add at once two eggs and almost a cup of milk. Whisk briskly and if it is the consistency of heavy cream it's fine; if not, add a bit more milk. Butter a non-stick frying pan and ladle out a nice bit in the centre, then tilt to the sides until it fills the pan. Turn when brown and cook the other side. They cook very quickly. Serve immediately, or keep warm in a pre-heated oven. Spread peaches in the crepe, fold up and add a bit of sugar on top. Delicious!
