

Judge Bill Shrum, Smithville and Fred Kentner pose with the Polish Bantam.

Ladies' Fair Board winners were: front row, left to right, Adrienne Kovacs, best essay, and top girl exhibitor, school work, Shannoo Johnson, close runner-up top girl exhibitor, Diane Evans, most points in indoor exhibits, including best in the new category, and plants and flowers, Steve Morris, top boy exhibitor. Back row, Tiju Jago, most junior points, Bev Brock, home craft section winner, Rick Van Fleet, most points in canned and preserves, Virginia Hulme, crafts and hobbies winner and Kay Alger, domestic science winner.

Tractors are lots of fun to climb on as Terri Miller, Denise Schmidt, Jodi Kri, Michael Gordon and David Harkins discover.

Karna and Jenna Woodburn and Duff Sheldon cheer on their roosters in the crowing contest.

Young and old alike enjoyed the Fair

Judges, participants and spectators all had fun at the first annual Rooster Crowing Contest.

David Lasby of Rockwood, shows his heifer. Dave is a member of the Acton 4-H Club.

Peter Forbes took part in the tractor pull.

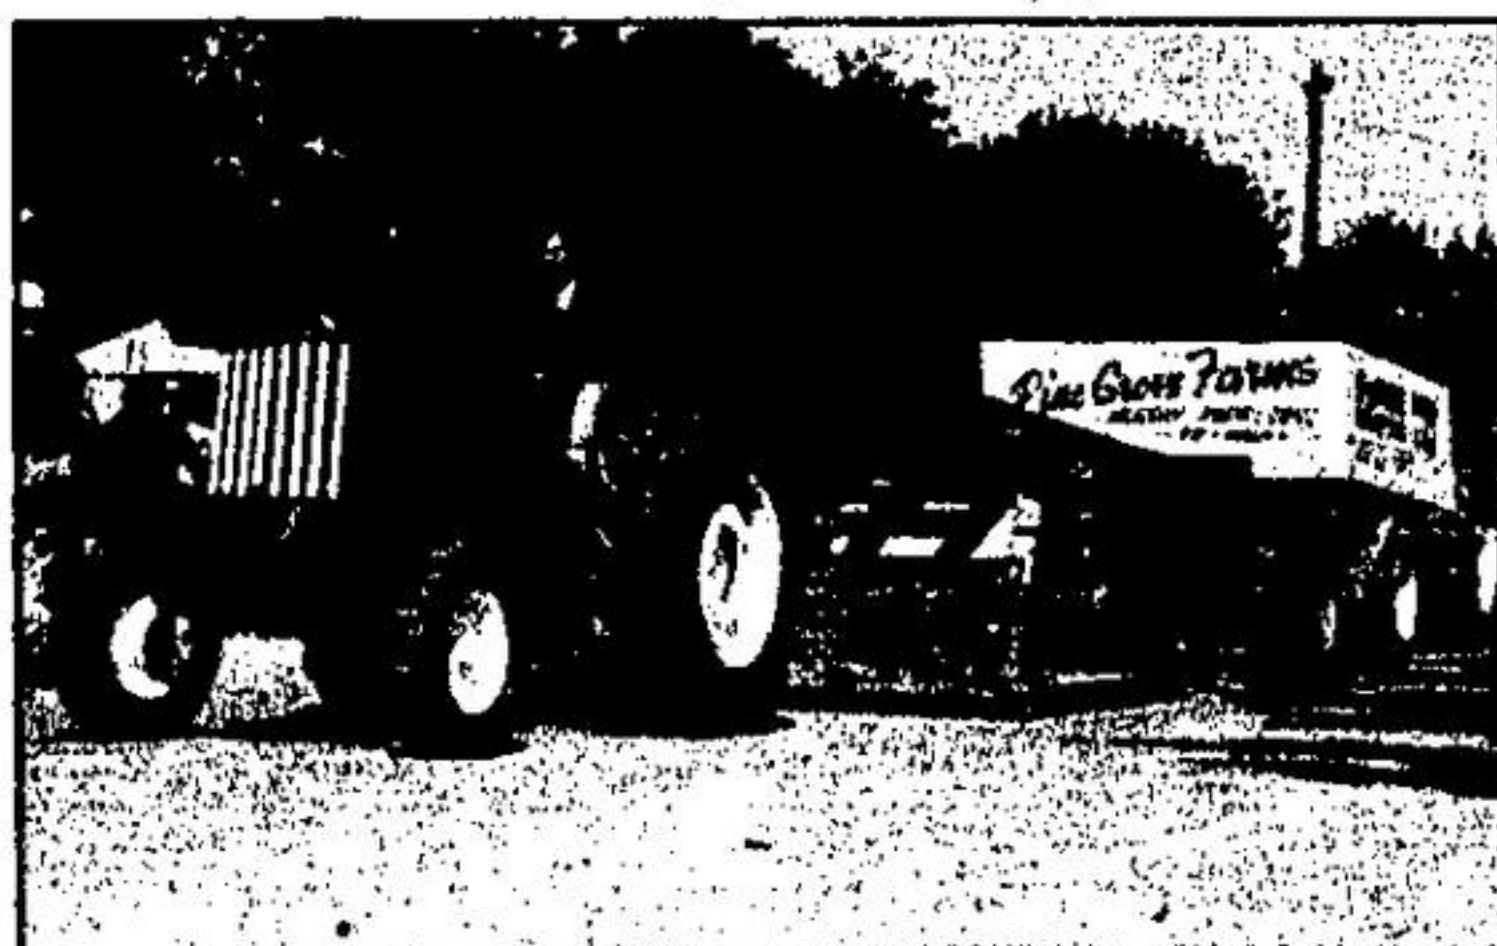

Joe Fuller was one of the local participants in the Fiddler's Contest.

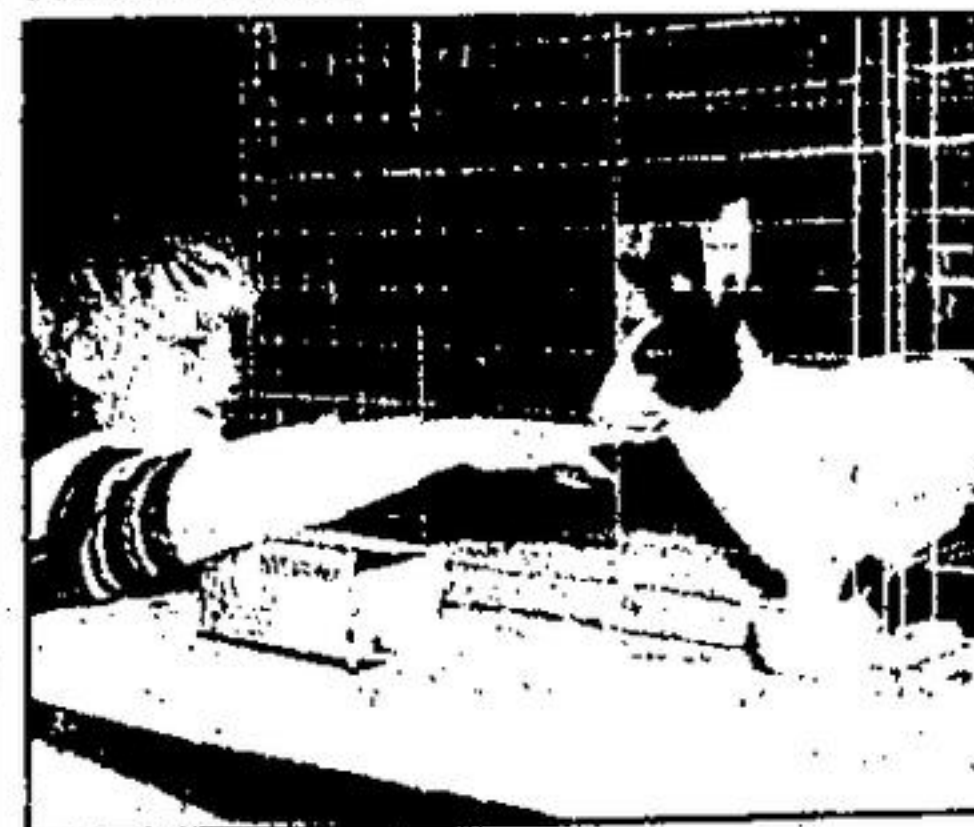

Auctioneer Max Storey accepts bids at the swine carcass auction put on by the Halton-Peel Pork Producers.

Shirley Murray of Acton won the Best Dairy Heifer competition.

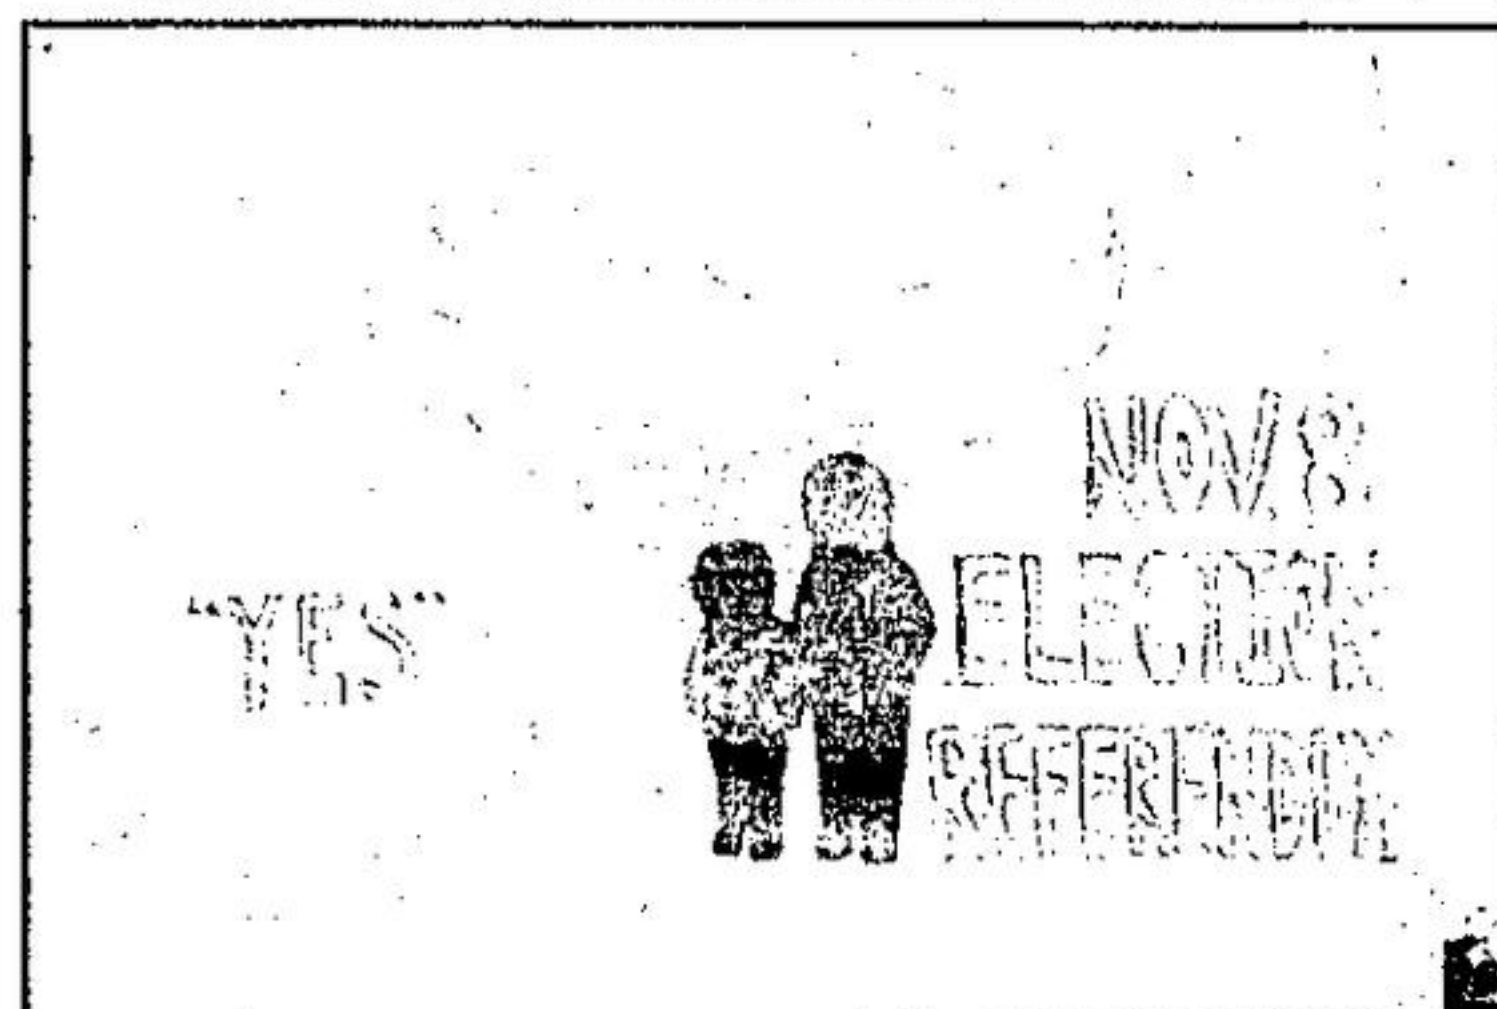

Wayne "Chic" Emerson of Acton competed in the tractor pull.

Matthew Smith pets a rabbit.

Horse and rider land safely after this jump in the English Jumping Classes.

Eldon Comfort, Marjatta Lappalainen and Karen Bejt sold 'Yes' buttons at the fair.

The horse pull drew a large crowd Friday night.

Bonnie Young from Australia, who was in town visiting Walter and Pauline Barlow, dressed up as a clown to sell Opil-Mrs. balloons to children like Chantel McLaren who is with her father Jerry.