Northwest Territories

Windy River

The far north can cast a queer spell on people at times. You can literally get hooked so bad that you want to stay; to prove the statement one only has to look at photograph of Mayor Pete Pomeroy; he's hooked alright but not on the boulder strewn bottom of the Windy River. Now rumor has it that Pete had plans of staying there and making his winter home in Farley Mowat's old cabin, that is, until Paul Campbell reminded him that an election was coming up soon.

The rest of the party also decided that Pete was too important to be allowed to stay there and write a book about the big one he landed on the boulder strewn shore of the Windy River; while using an Ultra-light spinning outfit, assembled especially for him by Paul Campbell.

Now it's a scramble, so Enjoy the Outdoors, Safe Journey and Tight Lines.

The winner of the A.E. LePage Realty Stakes at Georgetown Fair's greyhound races was "Speedy Rick," owned by R. Hyslop of Markham and is congratulated by A.E. LePage manager, Finn Poustrup. The race was completed in the lightning time of 20.20 seconds and was one of the highlights of the special racing event the final day of the fair.
