

Series of talks explain Baha'i

The second talk in a three part series, introducing the Baha'i Faith to the residents of Halton Hills, will be presented at the Cultural Centre in Georgetown at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 16. Guest speaker for the evening is Terry Spratt, owner of a Toronto art gallery. Mr. Spratt was born, raised and educated in Montreal. He attended Catholic Schools in Montreal and also St. Michael's in Toronto. He was a senior high school teacher for 12 years before moving to Australia, where he taught for three years. As a Baha'i he has travelled extensively, teaching the faith in such countries as India, Israel, Iran and Burma. On his return to Canada he became a member of the World Religions project in Sudbury before moving to Toronto to open his gallery cafe. Mr. Spratt's topic will be the implications of the Baha'i Faith for mankind today. It is the Baha'iss hope that this series of talks will shed some light on the causes and eventual outcome of this universal unrest.
