Meanderings

by Mabel Barkman

You don't have to be an excellent breadmaker to have attractive rolls in the shape of a Christmas tree for breakfast on Christmas Day.

Just buy some frozen bread dough and defrost. Grease a cookie sheet and cut the dough into small pieces and shape into balls. Start at the bottom with five balls and work up until you have one. Let rise until double in bulk and then bake until nice and brown in a 370 degrees oven.

Let cool a bit and make white butter icing. Cover the rolls with the icing and let a little drip down. Decorate with red and green cherries and a bit of colored shot.
