Trip to England for design students

When Sheridan College interior design co-ordinator Anne Praysner couldn't find enough historic buildings in North America for her students, she decided to expand their viewpoint with a trip to that haven of history buffs - England.

Next spring, Praysner will lead 50 interior design students on an across-the-Atlantic field trip to study the stately homes in the south of England from March 18-31. "We will be staying in three-star hotels and seeing all the stately homes in Windsor, Brighton and Bleinheim," Praysner said.
