

“South Africa is the only vacation
my friends let me tell them about.”

“Service on the flight?
SAA treated us like we owned the airline.”

“First time I ever came home with traveler’s checks I didn’t need to cash.”

When you describe your romantic evening in a glittering rooftop restaurant in a city built on a hill of gold, followed by a stay in a game lodge with zebras grazing its lawn, you’re describing a holiday in South Africa. And you’ll be listened to.

Who can resist stories of riding an aerial tram to the top of a 3000-ft. mountain to view two oceans? Or of stopping your car to let elephants cross the road? Or finding a country where prices haven’t yet caught up with the rest of the world?

If they don’t believe you, suggest they fly there aboard one of South African Airways’ five wide-body Boeing 747 direct flights every week. Then they’ll believe you.

Fast, frequent, and friendly.
