

On the Leavell

With Helen
"You ought to be in pictures," is probably what Erik and Pat Peterson thought of their youngest daughter Tina when she was born December 23, 1980, and that's exactly what a professional photographer must have thought when he put the baby's picture on a large poster to advertise his work.
Pat got quite a surprise last week when she went into IGA and saw her baby's six-week-old face on a poster telling everyone of an upcoming visit by the photographer.
In addition to Tina's picture were two others. It was obviously the poster was used by the man wherever he went.
Pat is quite flattered to think of all the thousands of pictures the man had to choose for his poster, and he chose Tina's.

Did anyone recognize a familiar face in The Bay catalogue/flyer that was inserted in last week's paper. On page B19 there was a picture of two young men modeling a sweater and t-shirt. It turns out the young fellow on the left, with the mustache, was none other than Darrell Allinson of Mowbray Place.

Darrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Allinson and is currently working for the Bay.

This Saturday and Sunday, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Avril Bull, a local artist, will be having an open house Print Show and Sale at her studio at Crewson's Corners, two miles west of Acton, off Highway 7 in the original Crewson homestead.
Avril, a graduate of the Ontario College of Art is a printmaker and painter. She works on copper, etching her drawings into metal with acid, an involved technical procedure resulting in high quality, hard produced prints. A lot of subject matter is gathered on her sketching trips. Some of the work in this show will be Newfoundland landscapes. There will also be some watercolor paintings.
Aside from her studio, Avril's work can be found in galleries in Toronto and Montreal, Elora, Stratford and Tobermory.
This spring, Avril is heading west to sketch, study and travel for a few months.

Being a good Samaritan isn't all it's cracked up to be, Mary Watson, Tidey Ave. discovered last week. Mary was heading home from work here at the Free Press when she spotted two young boys beating up on a third, who was definitely losing. Being the kind person Mary is, she stopped her car and scared the two assailants off. The third boy just lay on the ground and she went to investigate his condition. As she was leaning over him to ask him if he was alright, the young lad brought his legs up and kicked Mary in the ribs, sending her reeling backwards. By the time she caught her wind, her assailant had disappeared.

A trip to the doctor the next day revealed badly bruised ribs.

A big hello goes out to William George and family, of Mill St. from Richard Clark in Winnipeg. The message comes via travel agent Rick Bonnette.
Rick was calling Pacific Western Airlines in Winnipeg for a reservation and told the voice on the other end of the line he was calling from Acton Travel. It turns out the voice was that of Richard, who lived in Acton for five or six years. Small world.

The Free Press made the television again, but this time it wasn't on Channel 13's Arthur Carr Show (Sorry Arthur).
Dave Devall, weatherman on CFTO (Channel 9) was seen holding up the Free Press of a few weeks back reading from the Back Issues. He commented on how 100 years ago, there was a record amount of snow shovelling in Acton. Then a few minutes later, when the cameras switched to newscaster Ken Shaw, he too was reading the paper, and quickly shoved it out of sight when caught.
Devall was caught reading the paper on camera about eight years ago too when there was a story about his mentioning Acton on the air.

John Brown, of 3833 7A St., South West Calgary, Alberta, cousin of Marg McCullough is very interested in information about the history of Acton. It seems John's father Rev. Ralston Brown lived in Acton in the early 1900s, and attended services at Trinity United Church (although he was not the minister). John wants to get to know the town where his father made many friends.

Knechtel on BIA

Ross Knechtel will be Halton Hills council's representative on the Acton Business Improvement Area (BIA). He will sit on the committee for his term of council.
Ed Wood is chairman of the BIA with Bill Cook as vice chairman. Larry Greaves is secretary-treasurer and Denis Savole, Gord Chapman and Paul O'Brien are members of the board of management.

Correction

Stephen Leslie McGilloway, Ransom St. was sentenced to three months in jail for trafficking in a narcotic, not six months as reported in the Free Press last week.
McGilloway was charged in February, 1982 with two counts of trafficking after selling marijuana to an undercover police officer on two separate occasions.
He plead guilty last month to the charges and was sentenced two weeks ago by Judge J.D. Carnwath. He was given three months for each charge, to run concurrently, not consecutively. The Free Press regrets the error.

Sergeant Al McQueen, of the Halton Regional Police presents Arlie White, president of the Acton Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society with a cheque for $390 to be added to the $340 taken in at the door of the Al Ruelens Memorial Volleyball tournament recently. White accepted on behalf of campaign chairperson Gloria Coats. The president extended a special thank you to the police, the Toronto Argonauts and the Sunshine Girls for holding the fund raising event in Acton.

More vegetable or flower seeds than you need in that packet? Store the leftovers in a plastic bag in your freezer. They'll stay bright and fertile until next year.
Fill a large set shower with soap for bathing, fish or over a party board. You'll waste less than four times.
New shoes should be conditioned with transparent paste wax. This will increase resistance to salt and moisture. Keep shoes buffed and they'll last longer.
