$122,500 for flood warning
Ontario grants totalling $67,255 will be used by the Halton Region Conservation Authority to assist with the establishment of an improved flood warning and streamflow forecasting system.

Additional equipment and snowfall and rainfall monitoring stations as well as streamflow recorders and portable data acquisition system will be added to the Authority's existing streamflow data collection system. In addition, existing micro computer facilities will be upgraded and hydraulic models of several major water-courses will be developed for use in flood forecasting.

Report from Queen's Park
by Julian Reed
MPP Halton-Burlington
As David Peterson recently pointed out, economic considerations are being placed ahead of human concerns in the Ontario Government's decision to close six centres for the developmentally handicapped.

Several members of the Liberal Caucus have spent considerable time in recent weeks touring the centres and conferring with residents, parents and staff. To date, there is not one single shred of evidence that the residents stand to benefit from the closings which were announced last October by the Minister of Community and Social Services.

In the name of justice and humanity, the Government should immediately suspend its plans and launch a thorough process of analysis and consultation to determine what is best for the almost 1,000 residents affected by the proposed move.

It should reconsider the decision to abandon the 1981 plan to increase spending on community-based services before even contemplating closure of the six regional centres.

Liberal first-hand studies have demonstrated all too clearly that the three groups directly affected by the Minister's announced closures—residents, parents and staff—are firmly convinced that the facilities serve an invaluable purpose in assisting residents in the transition from larger institutions to community-based group homes. For many people, they constitute a bridge from institutionalization to the community life we all desire for those capable of achieving it.

Remove that bridge and inevitably—a great void in the rehabilitation process is created. Parents groups, staff and community leaders are to be applauded for the efforts which they have made to influence the government, to prevail upon those in authority to reject the Minister's plan which has an immense potential for human misery—even tragedy.

The Ontario Liberal Party is totally in support of the move to persuade the government to reverse this unconscionable and unfeeling decision before a point of no return is reached. We believe that the Government should lose no time in taking action to:

—Initiate assessment of needs of mentally retarded now in the community which are not being met by existing programs.
—Assess the effect of closures on people already in the community.
—Increase the amount of new funds in financing community based services.
—Reduce population of larger institutions while maintaining six smaller facilities as alternative to closure.
—Give priority to community involvement and education.
—Assess needs of chronic care for the mentally retarded and commit appropriate funds to provide the services needed.

David Peterson, in an open letter to the Premier, said "It is impossible to deal in abstracts in this matter. The laudable objective of "deinstitutionalizing" the mentally retarded is not something that can be achieved by broad government fiat. Emotion gets in the way. "It is impossible to separate the emotion. It wells up in every discussion, whether with staff, or parents, or those so dependent upon us for shelter and care. Anxiety within the Centres and in the homes of the parents is running high. Many residents harbour great fears of the traumatic change which awaits them. The parents meanwhile are struggling to find ways to keep the Centres open. They argue that their children are incapable of surviving in community group homes and might therefore be returned to larger, impersonal institutions."

In the letter, David Peterson made a personal appeal to the Premier to speak directly to those involved, and to place a moratorium on the closures, pending further consultation and review.
