Clergy Comment

by Rev. Art Tribe

In the tenth chapter of Luke's Gospel, Jesus dispatches 72 of the disciples to precede Him into the villages He planned to visit, and to prepare the people for His coming.

Their mission is to explain to the people that Jesus was of God. "Cure the sick there and tell the people the reign of God is at hand", Jesus instructs them.

Later, the 72 return in jubilation. They are anxious to tell Jesus about their success. "Master, even the demons are subject to us in Your Name", they say triumphantly. Jesus answers, "Do not rejoice so much in the fact that the devils are subject to you, as that your names are inscribed in heaven".

He wanted them to understand that they would miss the whole meaning of their discipleship if they saw it in terms of their own glorification. He did not send them out in pursuit of power and prestige. He was saying, in effect, "Do not rejoice in your newly-found exalted status as miracle workers. Do not rejoice over the big impression you made on the townspeople by your healing and curing and power over devils. If you depend on these passing things for your life's fulfillment, you are heading for a fall. They will let you down. The reason your names are inscribed in heaven is that you are following Me in doing God's will. Obedience to God's will is the only genuine source of your life's fulfillment as human persons. Obedience to God's will is the only genuine source of the abundant life that I am offering to those who follow Me".

Still seek representative for parking authority

Acton still doesn't have a representative on Halton Hills parking authority.

The vacancy has existed since the spring after Paul O'Brien resigned for business reasons and nobody applied for the vacancy. Acton councillors have been seeking a replacement, but are having trouble getting in touch with candidates they have in mind because of vacations. Councillors hope to name an Acton representative for the parking authority appointed by council in September.
