

Baxter-Moore marry

by Carolyn Artem

Rev. Arthur Tribe officiated at the double ring wedding of Rebecca Lynne (Becky) Baxter and Ronald R. (Ron) Moore, June 11 at St. Alban's Anglican Church, Acton. Mrs. Betty Oakes provided the organ music.

Becky is the daughter of Emerson and Yvonne Baxter, 159 Tiley Ave., and is a secretary at the University of Toronto. Ron is the son of Alvin and Isabel Moore of RR 2 Acton, and is employed by Fred Anthony Custom Farming.

Given in marriage by her parents, Becky wore an off-shoulder Victorian style gown of Tergal sheer, bodice and full puffed sleeves trimmed with Guipure lace. She wore a traditional cap of lace and seed pearls with fingertip veil also trimmed with Guipure lace. She carried a cascading bouquet of silk pink and white roses, white gardenias, ivy and baby's breath.

Maid of Honor was Beverly Duval, a close friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Laura Bunting of Toronto, cousin of the bride, Beverly Anthony of Limehouse, sister of the groom and Paula Coats of Brampton, friend of the bride. The bridal attendants wore matching pale pink floor length gowns with chiffon print overblouse. They carried baskets of co-ordinating pastel silk flowers and trailing ivy.

Best man was Eric Kuchmak of Bramalea, friend of the groom, and ushers were Fred Anthony of Limehouse, brother-in-law of the groom, and Steve Buchanan of Goderich, friend of the groom. They all wore silver grey tuxedos.

Following the ceremony, a dinner-dance was held at the Acton Legion. The bride's mother received guests wearing a dusty rose floor length gown with high neck and pleated bodice. She also wore a corsage of bridal white roses. The groom's mother wore a lilac floor length gown with cap sleeves and trimmed with seed pearls. She wore a corsage of white roses and miniature violets.

The bride's uncle, Al Combe was Master of Ceremonies. Special toasts were given by Tom Weir, uncle of the bride, Beverly Duval and Eric Kuchmak. The wedding cake was made by the bride's grandmother Caroline Roszel and decorated by Aileen Livermore.

Guests came from as far as Weyburn, Saskatchewan, as well as from Powassan, Keswick, Annaprior, Toronto, Guelph, Georgetown, Goderich and Brooklyn.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was guest of honor at four showers given by Ruthann Roszel, Beverly Duval, Jeanne Combe, Hope Weir and the Perry family and Beverly Anthony and Agnes McIntyre. There was also a presentation to Becky by her fellow workers at the University. Eric Kuchmak held a stag for the groom at Ballinacree Community Centre.

Following their honeymoon in Nassau, Bahamas, the newlyweds made their home in Limehouse.

Becky Baxter and Ron Moore were married June 11 at St. Alban's Anglican Church.

Water woes here....

manganese problem. Hence Acton's present water shortage would be solved and growth of the community to a population of 10,000 people could be realized.

However, the province and Credit Valley Conservation Authority now says the well can't be turned on until it is determined if running the Prospect Park well will deplete water levels in the Black Creek and Fairy Lake. The "legal issue surrounding the taking of water from Prospect Park and the potential impact on the Canada Packers Ltd. (Beardmore tannery) operation must also be determined," the report adds.

The region has long relied on the Prospect Park well to solve Acton's water problems. Region staff is now also urging test drilling in the vicinity of the existing Fourth Line well at an estimated cost of $20,000. They are finally looking for an alternative source of water.

Staff has urged that until the water problem is solved not only should the Danville project not proceed, but all new applications for developments be ruled premature.

Only "minor infill growth" would be allowed in Acton, such as semi-detached homes being planned for the west side of Greenore Cres. and the small subdivision at the corner of Ranson and Main St. South.

Other developments around town which have received draft approval but not final approval, will now just have to wait until the water problems are solved.

After years of hearing there wasn't sewage capacity for Acton to grow, studies finally proved to everyone there was sewage capacity. There had been little mention of water supply hurdles to be cleared before the sewage questions were resolved.

Now Acton hears there'll be no growth until there's more water, a problem which has been left unresolved for 10 years.

Fair founders

Did you know many families still active today were founding members of the Acton Fall Fair? Representing Acton were George Havill, Nell Patterson, George J. Wallace, D.K. Henderson, A.B. McLean, John R. Kennedy, C. Woodhall, H. Swackhamer, H.P. Moore and James R. Anderson.

Manes selling produce

by Doris Fines

Dave and Marnie Manes are experimenting in a new business of growing vegetables and fruit for sale. To begin with, this year they have five acres of corn and one-and-a-half acres of tomatoes. The corn is selling now, and the tomatoes are ripening, which will be a pick-your-own crop when they are ready. They have some plum (Italian style) tomatoes ready now.

If all goes well, they hope to expand next year. The raspberries will be ready then, and they plan to grow potatoes, cucumbers, beets, broccoli and other vegetables on a pick-your-own basis.

Dave and Marnie and their family of three sons and one daughter have been living on their Hillview Heights farm, on Highway 24 in the Ospringe district for 10 years. Dave is the owner of IGA store and Jug City in Acton and Jug City in Erin. Their son Michael, who graduated in Business Administration at Sheridan College, Brampton, this spring, is the manager of Jug City in Erin. Daughter Shelley is employed at the Bank of Montreal, Guelph; John is a student at Acton High School, and Tom goes to Ospringe Public School.

The Manes also raise poultry, having begun on a small scale two years ago, and will have 500 capons ready to kill by September. The capons dress around 10 to 12 pounds, and are sold to individual people, rather than through the store.

Dave says they are also planning on one big weekend in October when they get in a supply of potatoes, onions and apples (Macs and spies). The potatoes and onions will sell by 50 pound bags.

It sounds like the Manes family has some work mapped out for themselves, which promises to be a busy and interesting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ford of Oshawa visited recently for a few days with Mrs. Ford's brother Bob and Agnes Keating and family.

Bob and Agnes Keating, George and Suzanne, spent a couple of days last week with Agnes' mother Mrs. Vilda Campbell, at Guthrie.

Bob Viletstra, who was going to Cadets in Guelph last winter, is now spending two weeks at Camp Ipperwash.

There will be no service at Knox Presbyterian Church next Sunday, August 28, while the minister is on vacation.

Judith Elizabeth Schreiber and Gary William Bannon were married May 28 at Evangel Pentecostal Tabernacle. The couple is now living on Church St. in town.

Kathleen "Kay" Alger, of Acton, recently celebrated her 80th birthday. Kay is a former schoolteacher.

Kay Alger turns 80

Although Kathleen "Kay" Alger has been around for eighty years (as of last Wednesday), her days "never seem long enough to do all the things I want."

Those things include a variety of handwork, including crocheting and flower pressing. She also keeps busy with tending the garden of her Arthur St. home.

Kay was born in Tottenham-Middlesex, England, but moved to Arcola, Saskatchewan as a child. She came to Acton in 1926, and has found "a great many wonderful friends here."

The former teacher instructed at the old Acton Public School under Pat McKenzie when she first arrived in town. Nine years later, when M. Z. Bennett was constructed, she transferred and taught under Elmer Smith for more than 21 years. She retired in 1969.

She is the oldest of five children. Most of her relatives are living in British Columbia, and Kay admits "that's where I'll probably end up."

"But if I left Acton I'd certainly miss it," she adds.

Kay recalls her first impressions of the town. There were fields and wooded forest where her neighbors' lots now sit. "You could walk downtown and know everyone," she remembers. "Now you might not know anyone. The population was less than 1,500 when I came."
