Sunday School children hear Hallowe'en tale

by Walfred Smith

The beautiful weather on Sunday brought many worshippers out to the church service. The Sunday school scholars filled more than the front row when it was time for their usual story told by Dr. Bandy. It was a timely story which featured ghosts, goblins and witches.

One young lad volunteered to wear a Hallowe'en mask which the minister had brought with him. The youngsters' thought that was great. It caused much merriment except for a little three year old who burst into tears when he saw the transformation. The minister's idea for the story was to install in their young minds that God was so powerful he could destroy the evil in the world. The children were joined again by the frightened little lad as they went down to classes.

The grown-ups were privileged to hear the second sermon on Baptism, promised by the minister.

Eileen McEnery was organist, and accompanied Martha Lewis on the piano when she sang a beautiful solo. We were reminded that there were still plenty of tickets left for the turkey supper taking place this coming Saturday. Phone 877-3721 or 877-3875.

Congratulations to Bud and Evaline Snow who became grandparents again. Their daughter, Myrna-Jane and husband Bruce became the proud parents of a little son, born October 27.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hulls, of St. Catharines visited on Sunday with his sister Winnie Smith. They also spent some time with other relatives in the Ballinacfad area.

The Hallowe'en Dance sponsored by the hall board on Saturday night was a great success. Most couples came in costume, prizes were given out for those winning prizes in the different categories. Harold Ford won the 50-50 draw.

"He heard his reading glasses."

Seminar Nov. 10

Heating safely with wood

The increased popularity of wood burning appliances over the past number of years has created a serious fire safety problem. During the past four years an average in excess of 10 per cent of all fire alarms answered by the Halton Hills Fire Department have been related to wood burning appliances. During the heating season this figure would approach and often exceed 50 per cent of all fire alarms.

In an effort to assist anyone presently using or planning to use wood burning appliances, the Halton Hills Fire Department is conducting a seminar "Heating with Wood Safely" on Thursday, November 10, 1983 at 8:00 p.m. in the John Elliott Theatre, 9 Church Street, Georgetown. This seminar is free to all interested persons.

Tony Ogborn will discuss the CSA standards for Solid Fuel Burning Appliances and Equipment and also outline some pitfalls the unexpected purchaser may encounter.

Representatives of the Halton Hills Building Inspection Department will outline the Ontario Building Code Regulations and the role of the building inspector in ensuring safe installations.

Representatives of the Halton Hills Fire Department will outline the problems created by poor maintenance and the quality of material burnt.
