

Nurse Selma Thwaites looked after Henry Kroezen and Gordie McArthur at the annual Christmas blood donor clinic at the Acton Legion last week.

103 give blood at Legion clinic

Only 118 blood donors turned out to the Acton Legion last week, with 15 being rejected for medical reasons, according to Alice Schreiber of the Acton branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

As a result, only 103 actual pints of blood were sent to Toronto.

At the clinic, Bob Hart was given a certificate for donating 63 pints of blood and Doug Mason for 34.

The Acton group appreciates the help of the Acton Lions Club, for sponsoring this clinic, the Legion auxiliary, the Legion, all the volunteers who turned out, and Santa Claus who was a big hit with the children.

There will be no more afternoon hours for the clinics. In 1984 there will only be evening clinics from 5 to 8:30 p.m.
