St. Joseph's
Petition against child porn
by Carmel McGeragle
The March meeting of St. Joseph's CWL opened with the praying of a decade of the rosary, led by Loretta Saamml.
The convenors' reports were given and Ann Montgomery's report was particularly noted, as it detailed a petition we are presenting in the hope of making child pornography illegal. Members were also encouraged to write personally to Mark McGuigan urging him to implement this much needed legislation.
Last summer the Living Rosary was introduced, and it was explained to members that the only commitment was to say one decade of the rosary daily. The rosary is also going to be said before each Sunday's 9 a.m. Mass.

Dot Norton read minutes of last meeting and thanked all for past co-operation before turning the recording books over to Elma Braida who is the Assistant to Marguerite Spielvogel.
Treasurer's report was given by Chris Houston. A letter from National Provincial Secretary of Services was read by Rosealee Dawkins as well as from the Salvation Army requesting canvassers for their Red Shield campaign.
Provincial President, Mrs. C.H. Dalton reminds us of the Provincial Annual Meeting April 11 and 12 in London.
A newsletter from the Provincial Chapter gave information of a fundraising workshop following the bicentennial dinner at the annual meeting.
Congratulations to the London rink, winners in St. Thomas in January of the annual IODE Bonspiel. Next year the Bonspiel will be in Owen Sound February 25th and 26th.
Mrs. Pauline M. McGibbon, c.c., Past President of the National Chapter sent an invitation to the Toronto International Festival in Toronto, June 1 to 30 as part of the 150th birthday of Toronto and the bicentennial of Ontario. National Services Secretary asks our continued support of the snack pack program for the children of Labrador's remote coastal villages. Her letter also informs us the people of Marys Harbour, Labrador, have achieved their dream of a community centre and are seeking help to furnish the building. Our members approved the purchase of two stacking chairs.

We received an invitation from the Loyal Societies for a gala dinner and ball being held April 27 in the Grand Ballroom, The Sheraton Centre.
The multi-purpose IODE tote bags have been received. They are quite attractive and reasonably priced. A thank you was received from Agnes Holmes who now resides in Guelph. Also a thank you from Joyce Sprowl who had been in the hospital.
Velma West requested that for the April meeting members bring a tea towel, uniquely wrapped. This will prove quite interesting and replenish our cupboard. Grace Nellis offered to embroider all towels.
April 3, our next meeting is our Bale Shower. Remember ladies these Bales mean so much to so many.
Meeting was adjourned and before lunch was served, Velma West read a few most entertaining poems.

Nominations - for the executive are currently being made. All ladies of the parish are encouraged to contribute to parish life by volunteering for a one or two year term. Think about it ladies—it is most worthwhile!
On March 31, St. Joseph's CWL is hosting the spring regionals. This starts at 9:30 a.m. with a mass said for the late Bishop Reding.
A speaker from "AGAINST DRUNK DRIVING" then told us about this organization, which has thousands of members in chapters all over Canada. Three of its members, present at our meeting, had lost a child to a drunk driver. Amongst its aims are to help families of victims, against drunk drivers. After a movie was shown, the meeting concluded with refreshments.

Al Russell in movie...

countries were invited and Al was one of them.
At the same time, producers for Newman's movie approached the British firm of Thunder and Colt balloon manufacturers, requesting the name of someone who could pilot a balloon for the movie. Al is a director and co-owner of the company and just happened to be in Switzerland at the right time.
Al explains that in the movie, Newman is making a great escape in a balloon, over the Alps. Newman jumps into the basket and off they go.
Unfortunately Newman never showed up for the segment Al was involved in, and a stand-in was used instead. Al himself is never seen on camera, but his balloon is.
The balloon takes off and heads toward Italy. Meanwhile, an airplane loaded with movie equipment was filming the 135 kilometre trek, as well as cameras positioned throughout the mountain.
It took about a week to get off the ground, Al says. Inclement weather forced postponement of the trip. In the meantime, Al gave seminars and demonstrations to tourists, and flew an airship, which is not too unlike a blimp.
There was a lot of preparation for the flight, Al recalls. Three days' food supply was taken aboard, survival gear, two radios and oxygen. The temperature was about zero degrees fahrenheit. He also had to have Italian money with him as well as his passport and other papers.
Flying at 14,000 feet about sea level, the balloon edged over the mountain peaks with 1,500 to 2,000 feet to spare. At one point he could see the Matterhorn in the distance.
The ride through the Alps was the most exhilarating he's ever been on, Al beams. The scenery was spectacular, and he's seen quite a lot having flown over parts of Hong Kong, East Africa, Japan, United States and Europe. The ride actually made the making of the movie secondary, he admits.

Al Russell
This was not the first film Al has been involved in. He helped out in the making of the movie Gas, in Montreal, with actor Donald Sutherland in 1980, and participated in a documentary on ballooning in western Canada and the U.S. two years ago.
Al's balloon is a familiar sight around Halton Hills as he takes customers up for rides. He's even got a package deal worked out with the Millcroft Inn in Caledon for champagne flights on weekends. For one inclusive price customers stay at the Inn, are wine and dined, and get at least two rides over Caledon and Halton Hills.
Al's also going to purchase another balloon so he can give more rides.
Safety is Al's top priority he points out. He will not go up if the weather is not perfect and he never takes unnecessary chances. He says there has never been a hot air balloon fatality, and he himself has only had a couple of bumps and bruises.
Al says the biggest danger in ballooning is getting hooked on it. For him, all it took was one ride, and life hasn't been the same since.
