

Novices edged in third overtime

The Alton-McIsaac Novices came up with the performance of the year pushing Stratford into triple overtime before losing a 1-0 heartbreaker for the Mantle Conference Hub League Championship.

The annual Novice Championship weekend took place in Hespeior on the weekend with Acton advancing to the finals after a flawless 2-0 win over Woodstock on Saturday.

Strong forechecking shut down Woodstock in their end zone and good defense and excellent goaltending from Ricky Demone resulted in Alton-McIsaac's seventh shut-out of the season.

Acton goals were pegged by James Lloyd and Brad Hayter with assists from Scott Corbett and Jimmy Katsilieris.

The Mantle division final was on Sunday with Acton facing off against a strong, confident Stratford squad. From the start this final was an end to end thriller with Acton playing their best hockey of the year.

The local squad kept Stratford bottled up in their own end time after time but luck didn't seem to be on their side as several excellent scoring opportunities failed.

Both teams had several good scoring chances but at the end of the final frame the score remained 0-0.

Coming into the first period of overtime both teams kept the pressure on with tight defensive play and Ricky Demone came up with some spectacular saves to keep Acton's hopes alive.

The second period of overtime saw both teams whittled down to four men apiece and again neither team could score.

Period three of overtime saw each team down to three on three. Acton's Brad Hayter looked like he had the game winner only to be dragged down before getting his shot away and then shortly after Stratford ended the match by stuffing the puck past Demone.
