by Pat Kentner

On the way to the theatre Saturday to watch Georgetown Little Theatre's latest production, "On Golden Pond", I wondered how they could transfer the story, which takes place at a lakeside summer cottage, to the stage. Their ingenuity provided the answer.

Entering the theatre one is immediately struck by the set constructed for this play. A cottage atmosphere with fireplace, cozy furniture, barnboard siding, strikes just the right note. Linda Roe's mural, seen through windows at the back of the set, is so well done—with lake, trees, far off hills, horizon, pin-pointing lights of distant cottages, giving you a total feeling that, indeed, you are at a summer cottage.

With the set so well done the ambience is already set as the actors make their first appearance.

Ron Hunt, as Norman Thayer, opens the show, and is a pleasure to watch. His performance as an aging, ornery but loveable man, fighting off infirmities of old age as best he can, meeting each day with enthusiasm, carrying on a long-loved relationship with his wife Ethel, holds the audiences attention throughout the play. Ron brings a warmth to his character and a naturalness that I found very moving. He usually takes a character or secondary part and it is quite impressive to see him handle this leading role with such a firm grasp.

Pat Joynes plays Ethel and, as in former roles, handles her part very well. As the steady wife and mother, providing support emotionally for Norman, and understanding for her troubled daughter, she compliments Ron as the co-star in this gentle story.

The story, concerns an aging couple, who arrive at their cottage for the summer, as they have done for many years, for a holiday. They are visited by their daughter, a divorcee, who brings with her, her new fiance and his son by a former marriage. The son is left with Norman and Ethel for a holiday while the younger couple travel and later return. Their relationships and how they are affected by each other is the basis for the entire play.

Jackie Willows is daughter Chelsea and John Carter is boyfriend Bill; a young actor. Dax Urbzart, plays the boy Billy, and handles his role well.

Special mention should be made of David Williams. As the postman and former childhood boyfriend of daughter Chelsea, who drops in periodically for coffee and cake, he adds an enjoyable touch of humor. Although his role is smaller, he never missed evoking chuckles from the audience when he appeared on stage.

An enjoyable evening. Listening to the murmurs of approval from the Saturday crowd, supports my own feeling that the play is very well done, well acted, and was a pleasure to attend.

GA'NO SOTE HIKE-A-THON

Ga'No Sote is the Iroquois word for Longhouse, and it is hoped that the first Longhouse at Crawford Lake Conservation Area will be constructed from funds raised on June 3, 1984.

This Hike-A-Thon is the first project ever organized as a joint campaign involving Jaycee and Jaycette units from every Municipality in Halton. People of all ages will be encouraged to take part in the Hike-A-Thon to make it a community project that will appeal to students, hikers, fitness enthusiasts and families.

Both the Halton School Board and the Halton Separate School Board have given Ga'No Sote their full endorsement and it is hoped that more than 5,000 people will take part to raise approx. $50,000.00.

Household Hints
From Pauline McNelly

Pieces of vinyl wallpaper make a colorful and easy-to-clean "placemat" for a pet's food and water dishes.

Once a bag of potato chips is opened, keep it in the freezer. Chips will stay fresher, and you can eat them right from the freezer.

Baby won't slide around in the high chair if the seat is covered with a textured car floor-mat. It's easy to wipe clean, too.

For a handy odor in the garage for chainsaw or lawnmower, fill a clean, empty liquid detergent bottle with oil. Put the nozzle where the oil goes, and squeeze.

Advice from the experts: don't load starting solvers, knives and stainless steel to each other in the dishwasher. It may stain the silver.
