

Celebrities Michael Jackson, alias Lori Kentner, and Big Bird, also known as Pam Andrea help Mayor Russ Miller raise the water safety flag for Red Cross Water Safety Week. The two young women are part of the PAWS (Public Awareness of Water Safety) project sponsored by Halton Hills Recreation Department.

Local farmer organizer for German visitors

A group of farmers from Germany will be touring Ontario this month, visiting local farms on a two-night stopover in rural Halton Hills.

The farmers, who have been saving for the trip for four years, are members of a machine exchange club in the town of Hameln, West Germany (approximately 35 km south of Hannover).

Their Canadian contact and one of the main organizers of the 12-day tour is Georgetown's Gerhard Treviranus. He was in Germany four years ago and happened to be at a club meeting when the idea for the trip was mentioned.

Treviranus contacted Clare Burt Travel to get help with the project and the travel agent's Cathy Lasby started the wheels in motion.

Treviranus now needs 27 local farmers to billet the 53 people, most of whom are couples, on Saturday June 9 and Sunday June 10.

Money is available to help cover the cost of meals and accommodation for the visitors.

The Machine Exchange Club is an organization designed to cut costs for the farmers in Germany who belong to it.

If one farmer has a combine, and his neighbor has a plough, they do the combining and ploughing of each other's fields. The price for the work is set by the club and the money is collected by the club. It is then divided evenly among the working farmers.

The trip is not being funded by the club, but all farmers taking the tour are members. The group will be landing in Buffalo on June 8 and working their way to the Georgetown area, stopping to enjoy Niagara Falls and to take a tour of Bright's Wineries.

Locally, they will visit one of the area's Holstein breeders, and ova implant operation, and Master Feeds Research Farm.
