Bush Planes and Rainbows

Bush planes are noted for setting adventure fishermen down on isolated glory-holes deep in the wilderness. The enclosed photo showing Bud and Glen Gibbs proves the saying. Vince Keddy the third member of the party snapped the picture. The first two days in camp was a no strike deal but the bottom hugging rainbow trout were found on the third day and smiling faces shooed away the look of frustration. A cheerful trio celebrated under canvas that night. And no doubt Huntsville Air Services, based at Billie Bear Lodge, was given thanks between sips.

It's unusual but this company has four planes to choose from. The popular Cessna 185 is one and it's available with wheels, skis or floats. Number two is the DeHavilland Beaver with floats. Three is a Piper Aztec available with wheels, skis or floats. Four is a Hughes 300C Helicopter with wheels, skis or floats that will set the brook trout fisherman down near fast water or small ponds there trophy-brookies lurk.

Tips from the

Golf Doctor

by Terry Mlakolczi

In discussing the take away (backswing) I'll look at various keys to use while the arms are moving back. In the next few weeks I'll be looking at the role of the arms in the takeaway, the role of the right side in the backswing, maintaining the posture position throughout the takeaway.

The takeaway is a product of our address position. If we have taken care in our prerequisites our takeaway has the opportunity to be strong and effective.

Its strength comes from the movement of the arms as the initial start. The front motion is from the upper arm and shoulder area. Because of our correct grip on the golf club, both arms are necessary to enhance the correct movement of the body as it travels throughout the swing.

We use the arms as the initial move because they are of a larger muscle group able to pull the entire body back into a position of strength and authority.

The following are your checkpoints as the swing starts back. The first check is at the half way point. As the arms reach waist height on the way back; the lead arm and the golf club are parallel to the target line and body has moved very little. But, as the arms and shoulders continue to lift back they will pull the body into a position behind the back and the weight of the body supported on the right side.

Learn the correct initial motion first, for it will enable you to set up for that drive forward.

Next week I'll discuss the importance of the right side as the arms move back.

J-T downed by Hammond's

In minor ball action this week Hammond's buried J-T Sports 25-13.

Good hits for Hammond's were credited to Jennifer Carr with a single; Brad Hammond, with a double and Katie Holmes with another single.

Big bats for Hammonds were welded by Alison Coe and Steven Holbiski with four runs each and Chris Carr with three runs.

Power hitting for J-T were Jennifer Kuhn and Lee Ann Robinson with singles and Seth Homer with a double.

Scoring big for J-T were Brett Petrillo with three; Jamie Kinear with two and Wally Redkin with one.

Ed Crimless drew this week's lucky number 1099 in the hockey lottery draw at Ed's In and Out on Saturday. J.T. Young of RR 1 Acton won the $1,000 prize with a ticket sold by Eric Sellers. Next week's draw will be held at the Glenlea Drug Mart at 4 p.m. Last week's lucky number was 1296.

Bill Lefeuvre is 'Father of the Sport'

Bill Lefeuvre, 41, of Limehouse, is one of Canada's most experienced off-road racers and because of his 13 years tenure, he takes much good natured kidding about being "Father of the Sport."

Yet Lefeuvre, a land surveyor by trade, still charges enthusiastically every time he races his BFGoodrich-L.C. Racing, T/A High Tech Radial equipped buggy.

Lefeuvre got a fast start to the 1984 season winning Class 10 heat races and Class 1 feature races at the season opening Score (Canada) event in Tampa, Fla.

Last year he finished third in Class 1 in the BFGoodrich Score (Canada) Championship. It was the first time in three years that Lefeuvre had not won a championship. "But winning isn't all important to me," says Lefeuvre who still considers being voted "Most Sportsmanlike Driver" by his peers in 1981 and 1982 as a career highlights.

This past winter Lefeuvre assembled a new racing vehicle based on a Berrien manufactured chassis and gave it numerous hours of painstaking attention to details. Particular care and expertise went into the highly modified Volkswagen engine that generates about 200 horsepower.

Lefeuvre will campaign the 1984 season sponsored by Amsoil and BFGoodrich.

Ballinafad buries Curling Club

Despite rain the Acton Ladies' Softball league managed to get two games in that saw the Marauders dump the Black Brigade 26-11 and Ballinafad bury the Curling Club 18-7.

Donna Jeffrey, Sharon Hamilton and Betty Cox led the Marauders' attack against Black Brigade with three runs each. Karen Smith, Penny Harris, Laurie Jackson, Claire Leveille, Sabina Stephens, Cathy Buckingham and Mame Clark chalked up two runs each. Kim Young and Lynn Harris recorded single points.

Colleen Cadger led the Black Brigade cause with three runs and Dawn Broadbent scored twice. Diane Alpin, Vicky Cunningham, Debbie McQuade, Pat Boycroft, Linda Russell and Sharon Richard crossed home plate once each.

Thursday's match between Ballinafad and Curling Club saw Vivian Bremner rack up five runs to lead Ballinafad to victory and Vera Longstreet followed with four runs. Martha Lewis scored three times, Bev Sojka and Sandy Landerson had two and Bonnie Walker and June Longstreet rounded the bases once each.

Curling Club runs were earned by Sheila Martin, Donna Cripps, Heather Ferguson, Janice Bell, Sandi Collins, Kris Bruce and Krys Pawlak.

Rural Atoms record 14-6 win

The Acton Rural Atom Girls' Softball team stretched their record to 4-1-1 after a convincing 14-6 win over Glen Williams on Friday.

Led by Tammy Joe Richard who scored three runs including a base clearing home-run, the Tyler Tedbits pounded out 14 hits.

Tracey Cripps, Tracey Shorthill, Tracey Hagan and Kelly Ambrose had two hits apiece and singles went out to Kim Corkum, Wendy Graham, Shannon McAfee and Kelly Shannon.

Wendy Graham, and Tracey Shorthill made several fine plays on defense in support of the starting pitcher Tracey Cripps. Relief help was supplied by Tracey Hagan, Kim Corkum and Tammy Richard.

The team has made tremendous improvement since the beginning of the season and have kept their opponents under an average of seven runs per game.
