New season begins at agricultural museum
Sheep shearing is first feature

Spring is a time of revival in nature and at the Ontario Agricultural Museum.
The pioneer farmstead is stocked with plenty of baby animals in time for visits from the general public. The 32-hectare facility opened Monday and will continue to offer a unique look at Ontario's rural history between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. until October 8.
Already this spring more school children have visited the museum than ever before.
In addition to the more than 30 buildings, hundreds of artifacts and displays, various features have been planned again for the museum's sixth season. The first will be "the wonders of wool" to be presented Saturday and Sunday May 26 and 27.

Wool to be sheared from sheep using traditional hand clippers, will be taken through the processes of tying, washing and carding. Women dressed in period clothing will demonstrate weaving, spinning and the use of natural dyes.
A special month-long display has been planned in conjunction with the province's bicentennial. The 200 quilts entered in the Ontario Bicentennial Quilt Contest will be displayed from June 29 to August 31.
Admission to the museum located next to Hwy. 401 just west of Milton is $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for students and $1.25 for children.
