

Dancin' to the music —and raising $5,653

Over 170 enthusiastic Acton high school students raised $5,653.20—twice as much as last year—in the Bump for Life all day Saturday. The 10 hour dance-a-thon was sponsored by the Georgetown Kinsmen to raise money for Cystic Fibrosis.

"Fantastic" declared the organizers after the day was over. The response from dancers and sponsors was far better than last year, when Acton placed first in the whole district. They won't know for two more weeks which of 20 schools came out on top but they think Acton has a good chance.

However, the Kinsmen already figure their project raised about 12 and a half thousand dollars this year. There were 20 schools which had dance-a-thons in the same project.

Last year in Acton 105 young people raised $3,000 to win the competition and a trophy.

Now the dancers are out contacting their sponsors and adding up the pledge money. Going by pledges, the Kinsmen announced the winners at the end of the Dance Saturday. Tied for first were two girls who raised an amazing $250 each. Chris Vetricek and Janice Raine each had pledges totalling a super $25.01 per hour. They received MacDonald's gift certificates and cassette tapes. They are also eligible to win the over-all prize among all the schools. Honorable mention for girls went to Sherry Weatherall with $18.42 per hour riding on her dancing feet.

Top ranking boy was Norman Bourassa with pledges of $9.88 for each hour. He was presented with an album and a book.

Others with the most pledges were Patsy Kelly $15.50; Susie Bahr with $14.70; Selina Schmidt with $11.78 and Anita Teboekhorst with $9.98.

All of them finished the full 10 hours.

In fact almost everybody did. A couple of people had to leave, but sore feet took a minimal toll. Only about eight people didn't complete the 10 hours of leaping, swaying and singing.

Individual solos, impromptu kick lines and circles varied the numbers. Some dancers had brought along their favorite stuffed animals and a few were in costume.

Children of sponsoring

Kinsmen joined in the fun too. More boys entered this year than last.

No spectators were allowed, but a few parents sneaked in to watch—and listen.

Kinsmen and some of their wives stayed at the school all day with the lively participants. They served two meals including delicious submarine sandwiches, hot dogs, hot apple pies, chocolate bars, milk and pop.

Special prizes were donated for spot dances.

The Kinsmen had donations from Burns Transport, Georgetown Submarine Shop, A and P, Radio Shack, Ego Fashions, MacDonald's restaurant, 7-Up, Neilson's chocolates, Norm Lockhurst of Sealtest and Dalry Queen, to help make the day a success.

Gama Sound supplied the recorded music free of charge.

BOYS, GIRLS, TEACHERS and frogs all took part in the annual Bump for Life at the high school Saturday. After ten hours of dancing, the frog didn't even get tired. He was "a-head" of the situation from the start.

SPIRITED dancing lasted from beginning to end of the Bump for Life.

$125 from town

Halton Hills finance committee recommended a donation of $125 to Kris Barber, Glen Williams, who captured second place in world figure skating competition in France recently, to help defray expenses.

The money was described as a "gesture of recognition of his bringing world fame to the town," by Councillor Roy Booth.
