Grandmother, 94, flies in for her wedding

by Doris Fines

Congratulations to Brenda Bruce and Freeman Reid, who were married July 14. It was a lovely day for a beautiful garden ceremony at Parkwood Gardens on the R.S. McLaughlin Estate in Oshawa.

Mrs. M.M. Bruce of Whitewood, Saskatchewan, who is 94 years of age flew down by herself so she could be at her granddaughter's wedding. She will be staying to visit with the Bruce families for a couple of weeks.

Vacation Bible School was held last week at Everton Community Church. Reta Green was a teacher for Grades 1 and 2, and Shirley Fletcher was her helper. Robert Fletcher attended from here to make a total of 54 students. Friday night was a concert to round up the activities.

Rob Vlietstra left last week for Camp Ipperwash. He will spend six weeks there in Cadet training.

Mildred Sinclair spent a few days in Guelph General Hospital following surgery. We are happy to say she is home and doing fine.

The showers aren't over yet. A miscellaneous shower is scheduled for July 23 for Cecile Milton at Osprige Church. It begins at 8 p.m. and if you would like to be included, consider yourself invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ferguson and family entertained friends and relatives Sunday afternoon, including Rev. and Mrs. Grey Rivers of Dundas, Adele Fletcher and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wilson, Danny and Scottie of Fergus, Barb Matz, Kristopher and Jeffrey of Marsville, Leonor Mariano, Mr. and Mrs. McBride, Paity Merlihan and Adrianna Perizzolo and friend of Guelph, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ferguson and Doris Fines.

Cathy and Caroline Millson hosted the Eramosa Veggie Baskets last Tuesday, and the other girls saw what they had been doing for their project on home improvement, and discussed how the projects were coming along. They talked about different insects and how they help or ruin your garden. They also discussed diseases and landscaping and the cover for their record books.

LEARNING THE ROPES

Wrapping up the Grand River Conservation Authority's 11th annual resource management camp, natural resource interpreter Bruce Duncan (left) instructs a student on the "Survival Game", one of many activities at the camp for teenagers. Authority staff teach participants the basics of water quality, aquatic ecology, forest management and wildlife census studies.

Have you noticed that the tulip tops have not died down as early as previous years and because of this the garden of annuals looks a little dishevelled this third week of July?

I always like to leave the foliage on as long as possible so that the bulbs will become nice and big to produce next year's bloom. But I'm beginning to get a little impatient and often go out with the scissors and snip away at them.

The same problem exists with the daffodils. I'd love to plant a big geranium on top of them, but there are too many healthy leaves at the moment. No doubt when August comes, I'll have forgotten my problem completely.

Now's the time to crack black walnuts for winter use while you're waiting for the barbecue to heat up for the steaks.

You need a thick board and heavy hammer. Beware of smashed thumbs and splinters in the eyes!

We gather them in the fall and then husk them before they become mouldy. Then we dry them slowly, usually under the wood stove.

They are delicious chopped fine and used as the covering of a cheese ball. They have a distinctive taste in cookies with a shortbread base. For anyone who has walnut trees, it's a shame not to make use of the nuts.

When I visited a country store the other day, I was amused to see a great deal of laundry starch on a shelf. It made me think that I hadn't used laundry starch for years.

It brought to mind that years ago, I had to make starch for every wash for the cotton dress shirts my husband wore, the frilly dresses my little girls had, the aprons, the tablecloths, etc. Now I don't even bother when I wash daily!

Come to think of it, not many young people do much ironing any more. It doesn't seem to matter if things are wrinkled a bit. There are always much more important things to do than ironing or starching!
