La Boheme at Elliott Theatre

The John Elliott Theatre in Georgetown may be the scene of a repertory opera early in November. An announcement this week that a City Centre Repertory Opera is being formed with headquarters in Mississauga was quickly followed by the news that plans are already in hand for the inaugural performance of Puccini's La Boheme in Georgetown before the production is taken to Mississauga.

The performances will be under the artistic direction of Eleanor Calbes and will be produced by Michael Burgoyne.

Auditions will be held early in September and appointments for audition times may be made by telephoning 416-275-7071.

The objectives of CCRO include the study, performance and production of traditional and contemporary opera and operetta at the highest possible quality level, for the entertainment, edification and enjoyment of audiences of all ages; the stimulation and encouragement of interest in such music by establishing a permanent core opera company, centred within the Regions of Peel and Halton. It is hoped that it will become the nucleus of an expanded company including serious students of voice and musical theatre; the provision of a vehicle by means of which students of musical theatre can utilize, expand and refine their talents for the mutual benefit of themselves and their audiences, in a wide variety of popular opera and operetta productions; the presentation of workshops and open rehearsal/showcases for students of voice and theatre, in stage movement, dancing and acting, to be accessible to all residents of the area.

For further information on the Company, or membership (both active and sponsor) call Anne Matheson at 457-1938, or the President of CCRO, Michael Burgoyne at 877-5831.

Household Hints
From Pauline McNelly

Powered drink mix will add color and flavor to powdered sugar icing. Mix in a little at a time to get the look you like.

Vinegar is a favorite remedy for perspiration odor. Spray on clothing just before you toss it into the wash.

It's easier to sharpen an eye pencil or lip liner if you put it in the freezer for a few minutes first.

A new broom sweeps clean—especially if you place the top of an old nylon stocking over it to keep it in shape.

The bottom half of a double boiler won't stain if you add half a teaspoon of cream of tartar or vinegar to the water each time you use it.
