Made to order entertainment at the Madison

by Mark Holmes
If the Madison's future is as successful as the David Wilcox concert held there Thursday night, the club will likely become a Halton Hills hot spot.
A combination of great music, a party atmosphere and a superb sound system was a treat for nearly 500 patrons of the club, formerly the Riviera.
Located on Hwy. 7 in Norval the club is within easy travelling distance of Mississauga and Brampton. According to the club's manager and promotions agent Brian James they should be able to pack the facility every night.
James remarked he is aiming for the under 30's crowd with top notch entertainers, video and good food to attract people to his establishment.

James also noted that because of an extremely poor track record recently the club's reputation has really taken a beating but he said he and the staff are out to change all that.
Formerly the proprietor of a music store and sound system rental agency this is James's first try at running a night club, however, his exposure to numerous other clubs and entertainers through his business makes him well suited to take on the job.
"It's not going to be easy to break a bad reputation," he explained, "so we're giving it all we can to give people a good time."
The club has a capacity for about 700 people and its design is a relief from acoustically poor roadhouses.
It's cathedral type ceilings and paneled walls allow for little distortion in the sound system. Seating gives an unobstructed view of the stage.
The service, despite near capacity crowd, was remarkably good and finding the waiters and waitresses of a pleasant demeanor makes the Madison even more attractive.

Mike Burgoyne was Master of Ceremonies for Halton Hills Day at the CNE. He gave the audience information about various performers and the history of the area.

David Wilcox provided top notch entertainment at the Madison (formerly the Riviera) on Thursday night. Wilcox was the first big name talent to grace the night club's stage since the establishment changed hands last June. With a tremendous sound system and plenty of entertainment like Wilcox, the previously troubled nightclub should soon become a hot spot of night life in Halton Hills.
