Robot at 'Y' booth

The Georgetown and District YMCA will be at the Georgetown Fall Fair September 8 and 9 with some special surprises. Saturday at the Y exhibit you can view a talking and walking robot, courtesy of the Toronto Star. Saturday afternoon it will be possible to register for Y fall programs. At the booth T-shirts are available for souvenirs. A break dancer will also be around at various times performing some latest moves and promoting the Y break dancing classes this fall. If you haven't got your Y brochure yet, call 877-6163.

Gallery House Sol

The artistic works of Elisabeth Heinen (drawings of wildflowers), Rudy Molz (drawings), and April Quan (designs in glass) will be shown at the Gallery House Sol, 45 Charles St., Sept. 8 to Sept. 27. You are cordially invited to meet the artists on Sept. 8, 2 p.m.-6 p.m.

Auditions for Mame to be held Sept. 27, 29

If you've thought that doing live theatre looks like fun, you're right, it is fun. And if you've thought you'd enjoy playing a part in a live musical, you're probably right again.

Georgetown's Globe Productions will give you the chance to find out for sure, the easy way, when they hold auditions for Mame, their 1984/85 season show.

A warm, delightful musical, Mame offers challenging and exciting material for those who want to try for a principal role, as well as a number of good quality supporting parts, and ample opportunity for choral work and dancers.

Known for the song of the same name, Mame is the story of wild, eccentric, but lovable auntie Mame, and her adventures with her orphaned nephew Patrick. The show spans 18 years from 1923 to 1946, and takes us from New York City, to exotic Singapore, to the sunny, chivalrous south.

A read-through of the show will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 11 and again on Sept. 18 at Georgetown Terminal Warehouse, 34 Armstrong Ave., Georgetown. Everyone is welcome to come and see more of what the show has to offer.

Michael Burgoyne will be the show's artistic director. Paul Brisley will be the musical director. With the assistance of a grant from Theatre Ontario, Globe has obtained the services of Blake Heathcote as associate director and set designer.

Previous theatre experience may be helpful, but is certainly not a prerequisite for trying-out and getting a part. Auditions for chorus and dancers will be held on Sept. 27; auditions for principals will be on Sept. 29. Call backs for all parts will be on Sept. 30.

For the audition schedule and location, and for some encouragement to come out and give it a try, call the show's producer, Linda Parker (Limehouse) 519-853-0361.

Auditions for Camelot

Georgetown high school students will tackle their most ambitious musical, when the Music Theatre Club presents Camelot in November.

Auditions for actors, singers, dancers, gymnasts and even breakdancers will begin September 7.

Camelot, the musical interpretation by Lerner and Lowe of T.H. White's romance about King Arthur and the Round Table, is well-known in this area for being the musical which launched the O'Keefe Centre, and starred the late Richard Burton. During this presentation he married Elizabeth Taylor.

Camelot calls for a large cast so many students will have the chance to appear on stage.

Craig Farquhar is artistic director, Ralph Ursel musical director, and Yvonne Oldaker choreographer.
