School dispute needs fact finder

The Education Relations Commission has appointed Prof. J. Gandz to act as a Fact Finder in the negotiations between the secondary school teachers and the Halton Board of Education trustees.

Gandz, a resident of London, will meet with the two sides and write a report setting out which matters have been agreed upon and which matters remain in dispute. The report may also contain recommendations for settlement.

Any strike or lock-out is illegal under the 1975 School Boards and Teachers Collective Negotiations Act until Gandz has met with parties and made his report public. A 30-day cooling off period is necessary and then the teachers vote by secret ballot on the last offer of the school board or vote to strike.

In the eight year history of the Education Commission, created by this Act, 1,464 sets of negotiations have taken place in which 1,019 third parties have been appointed including 595 fact finders. Strike action has been used only 34 times.

Gandz's previous fact finding appointments include Perth Elementary and Secondary and Sudbury schools.

He received a MBA and a PhD from York University concentrating on industrial conflict. Gandz is currently associate professor at the School of Business Administration, University of Western Ontario where he teaches courses in Management Behavior and Industrial Relations.

Gandz will be assisted by Thomas A. Crossman.
