

It wasn't a record, but...

The parade Saturday marched from M.Z. Bennett School to the Prospect Park fairgrounds and delighted the numerous spectators lining the streets.

Laura Anderson of RR2 Acton took first place honors in the Junior Equitation Class. Wendy, of Wendy's Restaurant, presented her with a Wendy's Frisbee and a Silver Dollar.

The "Dream Girls" performed a variety of musical numbers to a full house in the arena during the Friday show.

No, it isn't "Hot Lips", but she certainly knows how to eat fire in the Friday night show.

Few people saw the brilliant color of the native costume class in the Arabian Horse Show Friday afternoon.

Take a gander at these two, occupying a prime spot near the door of the poultry barn. The place was a cacophony of squawks, crows and cackles as judges made their way up and down the rows on entries choosing among the exotic and the everyday.

The Boy Scouts' float in the parade demonstrated their many crafts.

Lisa Gray of Erin received top honors with "Our Keepsake" when Nelson White of Nelson White Stables in Rockwood presented her with the award for Best Standardbred on the Line in Saturday's show.

Acton firefighters received ribbons for collecting the most points in the all-star competition at the fair Sunday.

Pamela Cox, 8, and her cat Sox entered the best-dressed pet and owner contest Sunday. Her brother Greg, 7, entered his pet snake to win the most unusual pet competition.

Visitors to this year's fair could get a panoramic view of the fairgrounds from the top of the ferris wheel, as these two fellows did.

The sun came out Sunday afternoon, bringing crowds of people out to make Acton Fair another success.
