Guests get 'beaned' at Tweenie enrolment

By DORIS FINES

Two weeks ago, the heading of this column read, "Local man gallops to equestrian victory." Just to set the record straight, I think I should mention that Robin Ridley is a very feminine, very nice 12-year-old girl who loves horses and belongs to the Rambling Hills Riding Club.

She won three year-end awards, High Point Showmanship, High Point Horsemanship and Reserve Youth Trail, which were presented to her at a banquet at Tottenham.

The First Ospringe Brownies and First Ospringe Guides spent a day at Mountsberg Wildlife Centre. There were 14 Brownies and 25 Guides in the group, along with the leaders. They saw the owls, viewed a cartoon on ecology and worked on their Friend to Bird badges. They had fun making bird feeders.

Eleven Guides were enrolled into the first Ospringe Guide Company Nov. 27 in a candlelight ceremony in the school auditorium. Each new Guide lit a candle and repeated one of the Guide laws, before making the Guide promise.

The second and third year Guides put on a play about the life of Baden-Powell and the founding of Scouting and guiding. After the play, the girls served their parents tea and coffee and fruit loaves which they had made.

The Guides enrolled were: Michelle Gibson, Serra Rulley, Shelley Ridley, Rosanne Vlietstra, Shannon Argudin, Sarah Aitken, Terri Walsma, Michelle McPhee, Terra McDonald, Wendy Barnstaple and Jennifer Leider.

Eleven Tweenies came up to be enrolled into Brownies Nov. 28 in a ceremony in the basement of Knox Presbyterian Church. The evening began with a potluck supper.

As the parents and guests arrived they were given six beans. The object was to introduce yourself to someone you don't know, and that person must give you a bean. If someone introduced themselves to you first, you had to forfeit a bean. The winner was the person with the most beans when they sat down to the table.

Special guest was Helen Dubeau, who heard the Brownies promise from each Tweenie wishing to become a Brownie. Brownies enrolled were: Veronica Stanley, Christine McPhee, Leanne Nash, Lisa Madgett, Sarah Rown, Anne Lynn Bagshaw, Janet Vlietstra, Melanie Ridley, Rachel Stanley, Laura Bagshaw and Ellen Hamilton.
