Globe unites couple

Johnsons both in Globe's 'Mame'

Rehearsals for Globe Productions presentation of Mame are well under way, with two months till showtime.

The Johnston household is particularly busy, since both Gord and Marlene are heavily involved in the show. Since theatre is so demanding in both time and energy, the best way for them to see each other is to do a show together.

Marlene is playing the comic role of "Gooch", the nanny who embarrasses everyone when she gets in the family way. Marlene is excited about the role since, in addition to her warm and funny character, she has two solos to sing.

In Globe's last three shows, Marlene has lent her beautiful soprano voice to the ladies chorus. Marlene's voice was a major factor in obtaining the coveted role of "Gooch" in Mame.

Gord Johnston is busy working behind the scenes as Master Carpenter for Mame. The set was designed by Blake Heathcote of Toronto, whose professional services were made available through a Theatre Ontario grant. Gord must then take his drawings and turn them into reality.

It's a bit of a busman's holiday for Gord, who has his own carpentry business.

Gord and Marlene originally hail from Aberdeen, Scotland and have been in Canada for 19 years, 12 of those in Georgetown. They have three children aged 15, 8 and 7, who keep them busy when they're not working on "Mame".

Tickets are available now for Mame's ten performances Jan. 31 to Feb. 16, by calling 877-4323.

OSIS workshop

Tom Ramautarsingh of Georgetown High School, Ms. Linda MacKinnon (Superintendent with the Timmins Board of Education), and Jack Little (Superintendent with the London Board of Education), conducted a workshop on the new education program called Ontario Schools: Intermediate and Senior (OSIS), dealing with Grades 7 to 13 inclusive, at the Howard Johnson hotel in Toronto.

The new program will lead to the Ontario Secondary School Diploma (OSSD). It will replace the Ontario Secondary School Honor Graduation Diploma (OSSHD Grade 13), and the OSSGD Grade 12.

A student, in order to graduate, must complete 30 credits in the new program of which 16 courses are compulsory.

To meet university entrance requirements a student must complete six Ontario Academic Courses (Advanced Program) within the 30 credits. Universities will accept the new OSSD but no preferential treatment will be given to students who complete their OSSD in four years or less, (fast tracking).

Some Boards of Education, like Halton, have introduced the new program, whereas others will start the program in September, 1985.

It is expected secondary schools and community colleges will begin and end their semesters at the same times so students graduating from high schools can attend community colleges without the loss of time. At present Georgetown District High School students who graduate at the end of January cannot enter Sheridan College in February because their semester starts in January.

Another area of great concern is that students will have lesser choices in technical, business and art courses and this has led to teachers losing jobs in these areas. The answer to this dilemma may well be retraining, as well as the sharing of jobs.

OSIS does not mean that schools have to be semestred. More than 50 percent of the secondary schools in Ontario are semestred but there could well be a desemestring of schools in the future, Mr. Ramautarsingh explained.
