

Boundary proposal

Halton split in four Town in new riding

Ontario Electoral Boundaries Commission proposes to split Halton Region into four new provincial ridings, with the Town in the new riding of Halton East.

The riding of Halton East made up of all of Halton Hills, the easterly part of Milton and the northern part of Oakville, south to Queen Elizabeth highway, would have a population of 57,980.

Halton West with a population of 64,181 covers the westerly part of Milton and northern portion of Burlington, while Oakville South with 65,295 population and Burlington south with 66,447 make up the other two Halton ridings.

The first Commission proposal recommended joining Halton Hills to the westerly portion of Brampton to make up the riding of Halton-Peel, but politicians from Halton, Brampton and Mississauga strongly opposed that proposal, and urged ridings stay within its own regional boundaries.

Halton Region, backed by each of the municipalities, suggested a north-south split, but the Commission felt the population disparities were too great, so have come up with this four riding split in Halton.

The Commission uses an approximate guideline of 68,267 population per riding in southern Ontario ridings.

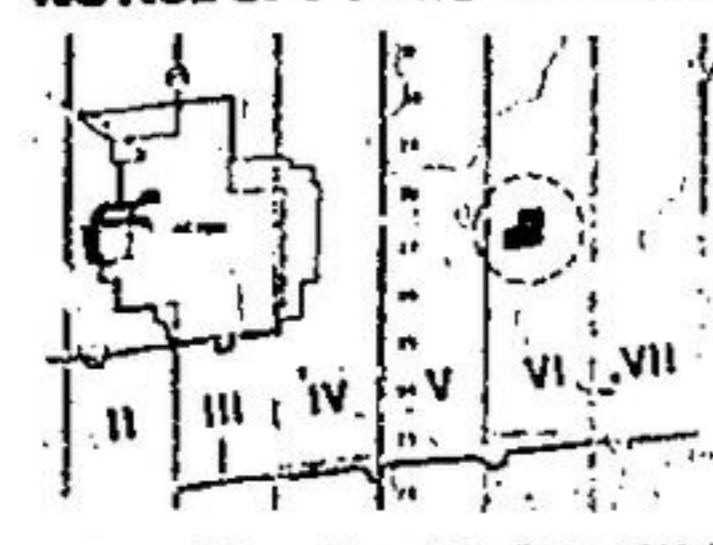

The Commission's proposals will now go through another public hearing before being discussed by the Ontario Legislature. The new ridings will not go into effect until passed by the Legislature.

It is unlikely the new boundaries will be in place for the next provincial election, expected in 1985, which may pit Julian Reed MPP for the existing Halton-Burlington riding against Pete Pomeroy, Halton Regional Chairman.

WPCP clean-up

Halton Regional council is today (Wednesday) expected to shift $25,000 from its 1984 operating budget to include digester cleaning at the Georgetown Water Pollution Control Plant among major digester renovations, a capital project. The digester will be cleaned as part of the larger operation rather than as a separate project.
