Flyers, Bolton All-Stars Skate To Sun. Saw-Off

On Friday, January 9th, 1970 Tyke fans were treated to three very close exciting games. The first, Detroit 1, Chicago 0, helped Detroit in the slow climb in this year's standings. The second game, Boston 0 Toronto 2, showed some fine hockey as a determined Boston team tried in vain to down Toronto who are at the top of the heap. There were times when the upset looked possible but after a few years of being in the cellar, Toronto is just as determined to stay on top. The final game of the evening was Montreal 1-0 over New York giving Montreal a secure hold on second place.

Standings as of Jan. 9, 1970

Team	GP	GW	GL	GT	Pts.
Toronto	8	7	1	0	14
Montreal	8	5	1	2	12
Chicago	8	1	3	4	6
New York	8	2	4	2	6
Boston	8	1	4	3	5
Detroit	8	2	5	1	5

Games for Jan. 16, 1970

8:00 p.m.: New York vs. Boston
8:40: Toronto vs. Chicago
6:20: Detroit vs. Montreal.

Sunday, January 11th, 1970

Georgetown Flyers played host to Bolton all-stars and battled their way to a 3-3 tie before an excited crowd of fans. Bolton caught the Flyers off balance and scored early in the game. They held their single goal lead until 12:28 of the first period when Dave Abbott, assisted by Mike McMenemy put the home team on the score board.

At 1:33 of the second, Ian Reeks, assisted by Ricky Donaldson gave the Flyers the lead for the first time. A persistent Bolton club came back in the same period and once again it was all tied up. With only 18 seconds gone of the third period on a lovely passing play from Brock Street, Greg Thompson potted a real beauty and once again the home team had the lead.

While Georgetown was still rejoicing Bolton came back to tie the score and that was how the game finished, 3-3.

Georgetown had many chances in the final five minutes of the game and only a very excellent goaltending on Bolton's part kept the boys off the score sheet. Hard shots and dribblers, he handled them all with ease and the Flyers had to content themselves with a tie.

Just a reminder to those who have not yet picked up their 1969-70 Tyke crests, please do so at the booth Friday evening during Tyke hours (5 to 7 p.m.) Thanks.

Take your pick.

INDUSTRIAL HOCKEY

POWERLESS PLAY PRODUCES

Paul Ward of Norval beats R&B Milk Centre goalie Ron Copland with a goal on a powerless play (Norval were two men short at the time) during Georgetown Industrial Hockey League action Sunday. First place Norval had the scoring habit in this one and constructed a 9-2 victory.

The Senior League has created a great deal of interest this season and the standing does not indicate the calibre of hockey the teams are playing. The bottom teams are showing a great deal of improvement and should make an interesting finish when the playoffs roll on. The Senior League should have a good team for 4 Town and Newmarket tournament. Kent Riddall who has shown a great interest in the Senior League will take over from Doug Quabury as coach of the 4 Town team.

Standings after 3 Games of Round Robin.

BIG WEEK FOR MINORS

Minor Hockey week starts Saturday, January 24. It's a big week in the lives of over a quarter of a million young Canadians playing Canada's National Sport. Don't send "AKE your boy to the arena - and stay to see him play.

"TOP PROSPECT"

Lewis Working NHL Games as Referee

"It was one of the easiest games I've handled this season. No trouble at all." That's what Bryan Lewis had to say about his refereeing assignment last week when he officiated for a National Hockey League game in Montreal between the Canadiens and Los Angeles.

BRYAN LEWIS

Bryan, a former Georgetown minor hockey player and official, has been handling pro games for several seasons now, but NHL assignments have been scarce. So far this season he has been an official in two NHL games in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, but last Tuesday's contest was his first in the NHL as a referee.

Judging by comment from the NHL's referee-in-chief, Scotty Morrison it won't be his last. Morrison has been quoted as saying that Lewis is his top prospect and the likely replacement for Ab Demarco who apparently prefers refereeing in the lower ranks to the pressures of being an NHL ref.

Lewis has two NHL refereeing assignments this week, both in Oakland. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Lewis, 22 Normandy Blvd., he is now living in Cooksville.

COLLECTING FACTS

Evaluating Information Before Snowmobile Law

The Ontario Department of Transport does not yet know what snowmobile changes will be necessary, says W. Q. Macnee, deputy minister. Mr. Macnee told the Thomson Newspapers this week the department does not intend to draft proposed amendments to the Snowmobile Act until the very last minute before the legislature resumes in late Feb.

LAST MOMENT
"We want to leave any decision about legislation changes until the last possible moment to gain as much knowledge and experience in the problem areas as possible. In fairness to snowmobile enthusiasts we need to get a great deal of information under our belts before deciding," he said.

There is need for change, said Macnee, but we don't know what the changes are going to be.

"When we make a decision concerning new legislation we want to be right. The only way to make sure we are right is to collect and evaluate as much information as possible. The department is actively pursuing this now," he said.

Municipal and provincial police, snowmobile manufacturers, and snowmobile operators have been interviewed by department officials.

When we arrived back at the cottage where we were staying, we cleaned the lakers and found 40 herring in 3 good sized ones. The herring were all in good condition and all had been swallowed head first and almost cut in two in the middle. Lake trout like Muskies can move like a streak of lightning when they want to.

When playing my wooden decoy high I have noticed a school of small herring passing by, at the same time the trout came from nowhere and smashed into them like rockets, they stunned the herring with head and tail smashes, then turned around and sucked them in one by one head first. It is needless to say my decoy was ignored at this time.

I always had my best luck playing my decoy about 15 ft. off bottom in about 60 to 80 ft. of water.

Apparently they can see directly up better than they can see down.

MAKING DECOYS
Of course many trout were caught at different other depths depending on just what depth the herring were.

Some of the popular woods used for making decoys are cedar, sumac and other soft woods. They have tails, made of tin and fins made of same. Light gauge galvanized metal is ideal. They are also weighted with lead on the under side - this makes them sink, dive and glide properly to attract the lakers into striking.

Of course there are many ways and tricks in using the decoys. When I first went to Lake Simcoe I had the best of instructors, such as the late Bob Port of Jackson's Point. Bob always used a white decoy so he could see it further down in the water. The late Jack Crittenden was also a master at the art

Lake Ice Fishermen Find Herring Means Good Trout Catches

By all reports Lake Simcoe was frozen over early this year. One angler reported the ice to be twelve inches thick 3 miles out from Jackson's Point. That was more than two weeks ago. The same angler also informed me that he caught a lovely catch of smelts. I knew that smelts were in Lake Simcoe but that's the first time I heard of them caught on white fish tackle and minnows.

It remains to be seen what effect they will have on the other species of fish, especially lake trout. It's a sure thing the trout don't require them for food as there are enough trout herring in Lake Simcoe to satisfy their appetite.

When lake trout are on a feeding spree, they gorge themselves on trout herring about six inches long. One time a few years ago we caught 30 lakers on the weekend on wooden decoys. There were six in our party and the limit was five per day. Now it is two.
