

SUNSHINE BRINGS OUT THE CHATEAU SHOPPERS

Mix some sunshine and model homes and "poot" — home hunters appear in hordes. The recipe works especially well on spring weekends. This is the scene in Georgetown's burgeoning areas as potential residents make the inspection tour through dozens of display houses. This group has just taken a peek at a two storey number called The Georgetown.

Giants Survive, Dore To Be Player-Manager

Georgetown Giants have met their David and survived.

Giants, apparent victims of a bug that is felling local ball clubs in epidemic fashion this spring, declared themselves entrants in the Halton County Intermediate Baseball before the deadline Monday.

Giants, it appeared last week were ready to fold because they had no executive, and no manager.

In the eleventh hour, the club's ace hurler, Bernie Dore, agreed to take the managerial reins, and two members of last year's executive, president Don Wilkes, and Marshall Bain, plus Pete Pomeroy volunteered to provide the head office guidance.

Two general meetings called earlier resulted in disaster.

If the Giants can form an executive they can field a good young club," Wilkes told The Herald last week. To an experienced nucleus will likely be added some good junior ball graduates and even some junior age players depending on the intentions of Georgetown's junior ball club.

Expenses will probably top $1,000 this year since new uniforms are needed, but according to Wilkes this should present no problem. The club was faced with expenses totalling not much less than that last year and finished in the black.

"Lack of park lights does hurt though," he told The Herald. "It's tough on the players to start games right at the supper hours and the crowds, always on the small side mainly because of the awkward hours, is discouraging to both the players and executive."

Susan MacDonald New Swimming Pool Supervisor

Georgetown Recreation Committee hired Susan MacDonald as supervisor of the Community Swimming Pool at a meeting last week. Mrs. Chris Briggs will be assistant supervisor in charge of instruction program.

The balance of the pool staff has not yet been hired but will be by the end of April.

Tenders have been called for repairing the pool's piping system.

At the same meeting the Recreation Committee:

- Discussed the condition of the town's parks with works department superintendent, Frank Morette. Playground equipment will be receiving a fresh coat of paint in the Recreation Committee's colours, red and yellow.

- Granted permission for the Soccer Association to practice on property on John St. near Mountainview Road and the fair grounds until the Cedarvale soccer pitch is fit for use. The Cedarvale pitch has just been reseeded and the Recreation Committee is urging the public to co-operate in the project by keeping off the field.

Family Life Revolt Subject for Panel

High school principal Michael Furlong was moderator for a panel discussion at the April 8 meeting of the UCW of St. John's United Church.

The panel 'Revolt in Family Life' had Mrs. Walter Ridley discussing morality; Mrs. Kelvin Johnston, the generation gap; Ken Milne, drugs and Carl Schenk, water pollution.

President Mrs. Bernice Nichols opened the meeting in the church hall with a short reading. Unit A was in charge of the devotional 'How many roads' based on the song 'Blowing in the Wind.' Mrs. Gordon Kidney sang the song during this portion of the meeting.

Mrs. Ann Sadler had an excellent book display for the members to see.

Mrs. Robert Scrivens thanked the panel and Mr. Furlong for a most interesting discussion and answering the many questions posed by members. Lunch served by Unit C and a social hour was enjoyed.

Bazaar, Rummage Sale In St. Andrew's Plans

Members of St. Andrew's UCW looked ahead at their April 8th meeting, and planned for their November bazaar.

Conveners appointed are Helen Anderson, toys; Evelyn Martin, teen table; Marjorie Ackroyd, sewing; Doris Allworth, Christmas decorations; Rita Munro, knitting; Mary Ashlee, kiddie corner; Marjorie Glover, baking and delicatessen; Junia Unit, candy.

A rummage sale is being convened by Ina Storrang.

Members decided to end the coffee club the last Tuesday in April. Devotions were led by Betty Pickup at the meeting which was held in the church. After business, Mrs. Annette Milne cooked a 'spring buffet.'

- Rented space at Cedarvale to the Boy Scouts of Canada's Georgetown District Council as a permanent office. That makes four organizations renting space on a permanent basis with 25 groups renting for their regular meetings.
- Agreed to join with the Georgetown Palette and Pencil Club in operating an advanced art course in the fall. The course is limited to Georgetown residents but not to Palette and Pencil Club members.

- Discussed a summer playground program but reached no decision. The matter of a summer playground program was also discussed with YWCA representatives before the meeting.
