

Phil Carney, Arthur Johnson Merge Their Real Estate Firms

A merger of two real estate firms is announced this week.

Philip J. Carney and Arthur J. Johnson, who have their headquarters in Georgetown and Brampton, respectively, have pooled their talents to form Johnson Carney Ltd.

The firm will have offices in Orangeville and Woodland Beach in the Wasaga area as well as in Brampton and Georgetown.

They have a trained staff of over 25 dealing in town and suburban properties, farms, lots, and acreages and summer resort homes.

Mr. Carney started his Georgetown business three years ago, after gaining experience with another local firm and has steadily expanded from his initial office.

Mr. Johnson, a Toronto native, moved with his family to a farm just south of Georgetown in the early fifties, where he was active in 4H and junior farm clubs and graduated from the University of Guelph in 1956.

Since then he has been in a sales career, and left a position as sales trainer for a large pharmaceutical firm to enter the real estate field. He was with a Toronto and Brampton firm, and early this year opened his own business in Brampton.

He is vice president of Brampton Real Estate Board.

He told The Herald: "When Phil and I started discussing a possible merger, several aspects of the idea appealed to me. I have known Phil since 1950, and I like his sincere enthusiasm and ambition; secondly I believe the Carney firm has a group of top real estate people, offering a quality service; and third, I feel as if I am returning to an area I have always considered home."

Equipment School Locale For TV World War Feature

The pock-marked, battle torn and blood stained fields of World War I's Passchendaele are being recreated in Halton County.

A CBC crew of more than 30 actors, technicians and production assistants are assembled at the Sheridan Heavy Equipment School, located on Nasagaweya's 6th Line, filming a half hour program for presentation in the fall.

PART OF SERIES

Director Peter Carter said this episode, titled "God's Sparrows" will be part of a full series of dramatizations of Canadian short stories.

Heading the male cast is Donnelly Rhodes, who plays an allied soldier fighting in the trenches and who makes the final sacrifice. Rhodes appeared in many other movies, including "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

SPECIAL EFFECTS

Special effects technicians have been busy at the site constructing a nearly 20 foot wide water filled trench as well as digging out numerous shell holes. At least one shell hole was filled with water which had turned scarlet from the 'blood' spilled by the actors who have been getting shot

Property Damage $200 in Accident

Property damage totalling $200 resulted Friday when cars operated by Frank Martin of 62 Main Street N. and William Hancock of 7 Arletta St. collided on Guelph Street at the corner of Cross Street Friday afternoon.

Both cars were eastbound at the time of the accident, 5:25 p.m.

There were no injuries, but police put damage to Martin's 1968 Ford at $150 and Hancock's 1958 Chev at $50.

Other sequences for the fall drama series, said director Carter, have been shot all over Canada and some of its best authors' works, including those of Morley Callaghan, have been used.
