69-70 REPORT RELEASED — Snowmobiles Are Big Business 78½ Million Spent Last Year

Ontario snowmobile owners spent about 78½ million dollars last year, said Tourism and Information Minister James Auld, in a summary from a report on snowmobiling in Ontario for the 1969-70 season. This total does not include expenditures generated by renting of snow vehicles.

Mr. Auld said the study, put out by the Research Branch of the Department of Tourism and Information, showed the average purchase price per snowmobile was $840., and total capital expenditure including clothes, trailers, etc. was an average of $1,200 per snowmobile owner. The report said seasonal expenditure which covered fees, accommodation, meals, and trips was an extra $153.10 for each vehicle.

About 100,000 snowmobile owners in Ontario registered 113,289 snow vehicles by the end of March, 1970. The report said 89.4 per cent of the owners owned one snowmobile only, 10 per cent of the owners owned two snowmobiles, and 0.6 per cent of the owners owned three or more snowmobiles. The average age of owners was about 40 years, and a family had two children. On the average, Mr. Auld said, there were 3.4 snowmobiles per family. It could be estimated, the Minister said, that there were 340,000 snowmobilers in Ontario last season, or one out of every twenty persons in Ontario used a snowmobile some time or another during the 1969-70 winter season.

The report found that most snowmobilers were satisfied with the number and quality of areas available to snowmobiling (78.9% satisfied, 21.1% not satisfied). Mr. Auld said half of the owners came from urban areas (51.2%) and the rest from rural areas (48.8%).

The average number of days snowmobiling per season was 41.9 with an average 3.7 hours per day which, the Minister said, gives 155 hours per owner per season. The report said 40 per cent of the snowmobilers spent an average 12.9 nights out of residence due to snowmobiling, and the usage of the snowmobile at night was 31 per cent. The Minister said only 3.7 per cent used public roads while snowmobiling, whereas only 0.9 per cent wanted to use public roads at all. 87.3 per cent of all snowmobilers had not been involved in a major accident during the season, Mr. Auld said.

Playoff Hockey in October? First Games Look Like It

by Bud James

Legion Saturday Morning Hockey made its 1970-71 season start this past weekend and all teams made a fine showing. There were 3 games in each league that looked like playoff games.

On Saturday when checking the dressing rooms there were a number of articles left behind including a pair of skates, a single skate, and a sweater, home knitted for a boy around 10. So players and coaches check the dressing room before leaving.

It is good to see the referees adding new faces to their staff as this is where they get their start to be a referee.
