

THE WORD IS 'HUGE'

Open Night for Parents and More School to View

As many parents discovered at the recent parents' night at the high school, it's a big school.

The newest section, the recently completed $1,300,000 addition, includes a large library resource centre, situated conveniently beside the new entranceway and a cafeteria, meaning a cafe area and auditorium combined, with an open type stage. In addition to open semi-circular stage, there are extensive dressing rooms backstage, and a lighting control panel, up above on a metal catwalk.

Eighteen new classrooms are also in the new wing, some of them are special classrooms such as a biology lab, a major art room, and typing rooms.

The old library is now a guidance office and the previous kitchen area is now a theatre arts room.

In addition to erecting the building, contractor W. McNally Construction constructed the new L.J. McLaren football field, a long sought asset to the school. There is an additional area for an athletic field to the east of the school.

Seven new classrooms are included in $1,300,000 east wing on Georgetown high school.

Some books are on rotary racks as in retail stores.

Kinettes Become Santa's Workers, Repair Toys

Christmas is on the way when, Christmas welfare baskets at the Kinettes start rounding up joint effort of service clubs and used toys for Christmas welfare baskets.

This week they issued the call for toys of any kind, now discarded at home. The Kinettes patch repair, and paint up the toys, sometimes assisted by their Kinsmen husbands. Anything is welcome, games, dolls, fire trucks, tricycles, roller skates or doll buggies. They only ask that they be in good enough shape to be repaired.

The toys then go into the Turkey and all the trimmings clothing, and toys make up the baskets, which are packed and delivered by Kinsmen, Lions, Rotarians and Legionnaires.

If your children have outgrown their toys, but you don't want to throw them in the garbage, call 877-7046 or 877-3454, or deliver them to 58 Joyceelyn Crescent, in Moore Park or 12 Raylawn Crescent.

Wrap Red Cross Seniors' Gifts

The second November meeting of Zeta Phi chapter took place at the home of Mrs. Deanna Butwell, of Joyceelyn Cres. All members took part in a chapter service project, this was the wrapping of Christmas gifts for the Georgetown Red Cross. These gifts are donated annually by the Red Cross to the senior citizens and are distributed at the annual Christmas dinner organized by the Rotary club.

Amid rolls of gaily coloured paper, and mounds of fancy bows, Deanna Butwell served coffee and dessert.

Saturday Zeta Phi and Zeta Alpha Chapters held a very successful rummage sale at the Georgetown arena. Coffee and donuts were on sale to help warm up those coming in from the cold.

The next chapter meeting will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 2.
