

Half Million Payroll When Gage Plant Expands

Georgetown's economy will be enlarged to the tune of a half million dollar payroll, when the plant goes into full production. At the moment there are 120 employees, but the number will jump to 120 when the new plant is finished.

According to plant superintendent Roger Mann, they expect to do 4 million dollars worth of business in this plant, this year.

The 4 million dollars business is turning out copy books, exercise books, file folders, ruled paper, graph paper, wire bound note books and refills for loose leaf notebooks.

From a large roll of paper just as it comes from the mills some of the large machines rule, cut it, print it if necessary, put it into individual pads, punch holes in it, insert wire in it, put covers on, wrap the package in poly-wrap and pop it out ready for shipping.

In charge of operations are Bill Mathieson, manufacturing manager; Bruce McIntyre, plant accountant; and Roger Mann, plant superintendent.

Almost all the employees live in town and the few who don't plan to move in as soon as possible. Roger Mann a native of Saskatoon is looking forward to living in a smaller town again.

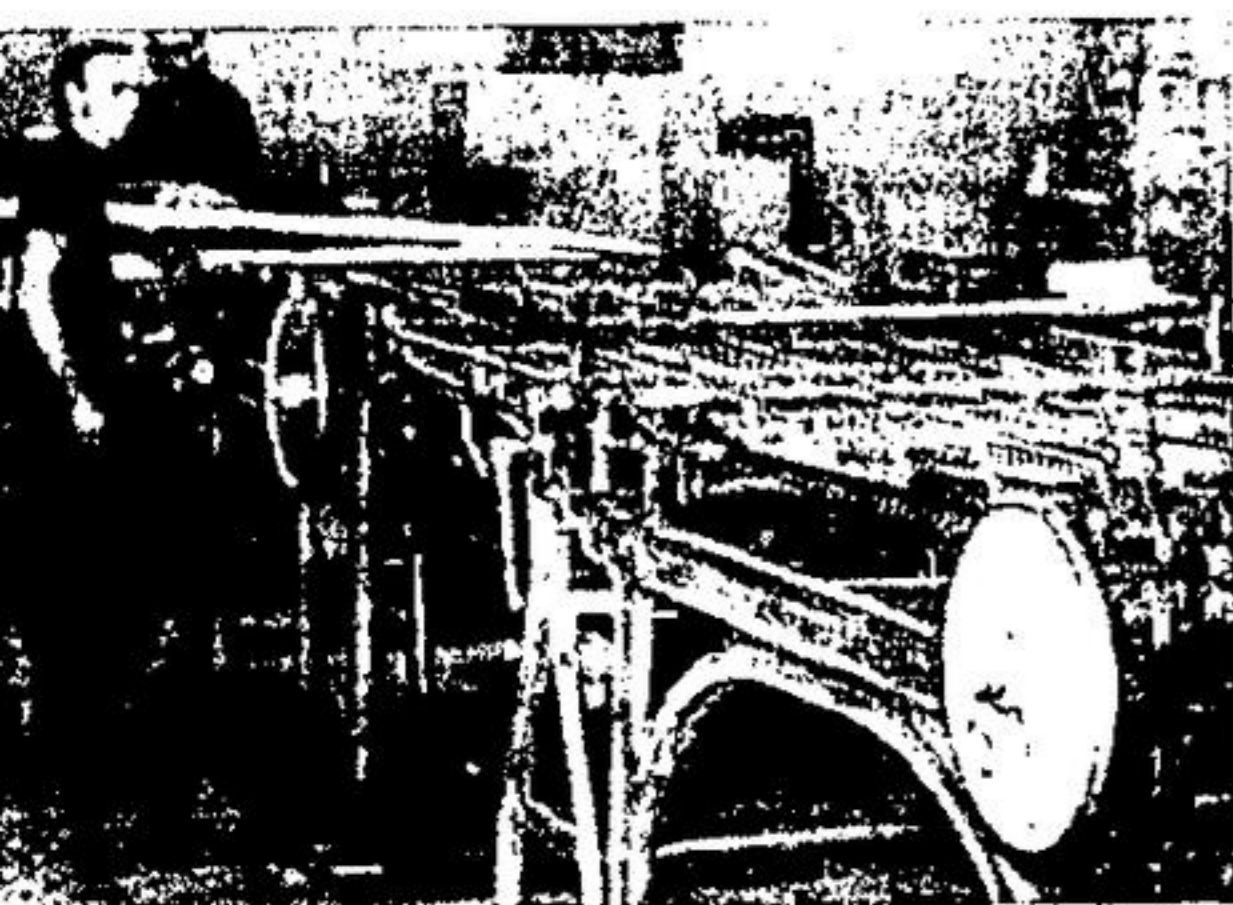

WILL EMPLOY 120 WHEN ADDITION COMPLETED

One hundred and twenty years in business in Canada, is the enviable record set by Gage Stationery Ltd., who located in Georgetown on December 1, 1955. They began in 1850 in Toronto and now have plants in Montreal, Winnipeg, Scarborough, and now here.

The present plant, on a ten-acre site on Todd Road, covers 35,000 sq. ft. and is being expanded another 45,000 sq. ft. to a total area of 80,000 sq. ft. The work is being done by McNally Construction.
