Variety of Items Sparked Interest in Mini Home Show

Mark Helliwell of Eric's Hardware demonstrates a polish that replates silver at the Mini Home Show.

Everything from a machine that almost thinks for the home sewer to a miracle polish that replates your silver were displayed at the 2nd Annual Mini Home Show in Knox Church Hall on April 1st and 2nd.

Eighteen merchants participated in the show and their cooperation in this second venture of the Friendship Circle of Presbyterian Women, made it a success.

Everywhere there were contrasts. A very new central vacuuming system was displayed in one room while an organ demonstration was going on in another.

Visitors saw how to hang psychedelic wall-paper, antique old furniture or brick a fireplace.

Reclining love seats vied with full-length mirror sliding closet doors for the attention of the public.

Flower displays were beautiful beyond words, and a landscape gardener caught the eye along side a display of washing machines.

Intriguing door locks and special wood stains caught the eye of the male home-owner while draperies, rugs and upholstered furniture satisfied his spouse.

All in all it was a good show and householders who missed it, were the losers.

Canadians Not so Dull

Towards the end of a long, dreary winter like this year's even the most jubilant of spirits begins to flag. The world takes on a gray monotony, about the colour and taste of English gravy.

We seem to be suspended in a vague nightmare in which we are swimming in porridge, with no land in sight. We have forgotten the glory of the individual spirit and our fellow-beings seem to merge into the murk.

Right there is the point at which we need a good spring tonic. In the old days our mothers gave us a physical one, in the shape of a good purge and it seemed to help.

But in these days of instant laxatives, we need something for the spirit, not the body. I got my tonic this year, just in time. It was in the form of two stories, both true. My faith in the colour and vitality of the human spirit was restored, and I feel like living again.

The first one contained enough irony and humanity to satisfy the most demanding of writers. It concerned a bank hold-up.

The hero lives in a small town. He owns and rides a beautiful horse. On a recent Saturday, he rode uptown, feeling no pain. He wanted his horse to enjoy life, too, so he took him to a hotel and tried to take him into the beer parlor. Unaccountably, he was refused.

Undaunted, he took his steed across the street to a tavern and tried to buy him a double. Foiled again, he was trying to lead his pal into the beverage room of the other hotel in town when the law arrived.

It was no contest. The cowboy told the cop exactly what he thought of him, for about twenty minutes. He then mounted Old Paint and galloped up the sidewalk of the main street scattering old ladies into snowbanks and children into store doorways.

Allegedly, when the constable was asked why he didn't put the strong arm on the cowboy, he replied, "I didn't know what to do with the dam' horse." And a perfectly sensible answer.

Don't ever let anyone tell you that Canadians are a dull, mousy, colourless lot. Jesse James was a violent cload and Dodge City was a home for old ladies, compared to this bank robber and this cowboy.
