Four Georgetown Guides In King Arthur's Court

Girl Guides and Rangers of the White Oaks area have been preparing since last fall for an event which takes place next Friday and Saturday nights — their stage version of "King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table."

Auditions took place late in October, with Guides and Rangers from the White Oaks area trying for roles in the play's cast of 50. Four Georgetown Guides, Cheryl Furlotte, Peggy Lavers, Lynne Partridge and Valerie Stephens — were successful in their auditions and have been attending weekly rehearsals since January.

BEST POSTER
Meanwhile, area guides have been making costumes for the knights, ladies, heralds and pages of the royal court, as well as painting scenery and building props for the production. The Guides hope through the play to raise funds to make improvements on the site of the area camp, Wyoka.

In a poster contest associated with the play, Brenda Smith, a Guide from the 7th Georgetown Company, created the poster which won top honours in her company and which then won in the Georgetown North District and the Halton Division of Guides; the poster was a close runner-up at the White Oaks area competition.

RECOGNITION
Brenda will be given official recognition for her achievement when Georgetown North Guide commissioner, Mrs. M. Silk, and Halton Public Relations officer, Mrs. W. Hall, make a presentation to her future Guide meeting.

Brenda's poster is being displayed in the window of The Herald office, and posters made by other Guides and Rangers will be displayed throughout Georgetown to advertise the play. "King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table" will be performed Friday, May 7 and Saturday, May 8 at Port Credit Secondary School in Port Credit.

If the VW411 with 4 doors isn't big enough, how about one with 3 doors?

The VW 411 Wagon. Say your main problem is carrying space. Open up the big back door and you can put all your problems behind you. Because back there is a gaping 24.7 cu. ft. of room. (Fold down the rear seat and you've got another 24 cu. ft.)

And where most cars have their engines, the 411 Wagon has still another 14.1 cu. ft. of luggage space. All in all, 62.8 cu. ft. of room to carry things in.

The 411 Wagon also comes with some pretty impressive extras that we don't charge extra for: Electronic fuel injection, front disc brakes, steel-belted radial tires and an electric rear window defroster. The 411 Wagon. $3,440* loaded.
