

ASPHALT PLANT OWNER AMAZED -

"Get Out of Town" Council Tells Portable Operation

Committee council - Asphalt
A portable asphalt plant on Armstrong Avenue, has been given 2 weeks to get out of town council in committee decided last Thursday.

Jim MacDonald, part owner of Woodway Construction, told council he had operated the portable plant all over Ontario, and never had a building permit. He said he would only be in town 2 1/2 months, while filling contracts in the area. He pointed out the plant conforms to all the regulations of the Air Management branch.

COULD SAVE
In illustrating the advantages of a portable plant, he claimed every ton of asphalt hauled a mile costs 7c.

"The town could save $1. a ton for asphalt, by having a portable plant close to the work site," he commented.

He said he has contacts in town, and surrounding area, and would employ 20 to 25 men for summer months. He told council the contractor working on the highway right now, Cox, operates a portable asphalt plant outside of town. In reply to a question, he said the plant was fired with light oil, which is much cleaner than bunker oil.

NEVER
Cr. Phil Siddall pointed out the hopper is up and steel girers into the ground. "You must have known you needed a building permit," he added.

MacDonald replied "I have never had a building permit for a portable plant like this, anywhere in Ontario."

In reply to a statement by Cr. Siddall that he should have looked into the regulations, MacDonald said he had made sure he was in an area zoned for heavy industry, and in a wide open space.

WOULDN'T ADHERE
Continuing MacDonald stated the only way to compete with the big industries was to have a portable plant close to the location of the contract.

Later in the meeting, Joan Smith remarked, "If he had so little thought for the municipality not to find out about our by-laws, he wouldn't adhere to the pollution by-laws either."

NOT OPERATING
Talking to The Herald later, Mr. MacDonald said he was not even operating right now, just doing repair work. He compared the portable plant to any other kind of road building equipment which is moved around to the work site. He emphasized that the plant is equipped with the proper filtration equipment and is licensed by the air management branch of the government.

Wild Ducks, Canada Goose In "Outdoor Classroom" at Terra Cotta

Since May 10 almost 1,000 students from Grade One to Six have studied "Mother Nature" on her home ground at the Terra Cotta Conservation Area.

Nature tours, conducted by Joan Rollings & Cecil VanGelder of the Credit Valley Conservation Authority staff, showed these children of the watershed some of the secrets of the swamp, wild ducks, a nesting Canada Goose, rock faults along the top of Niagara Escarpment and ecology of lake and wooded areas.

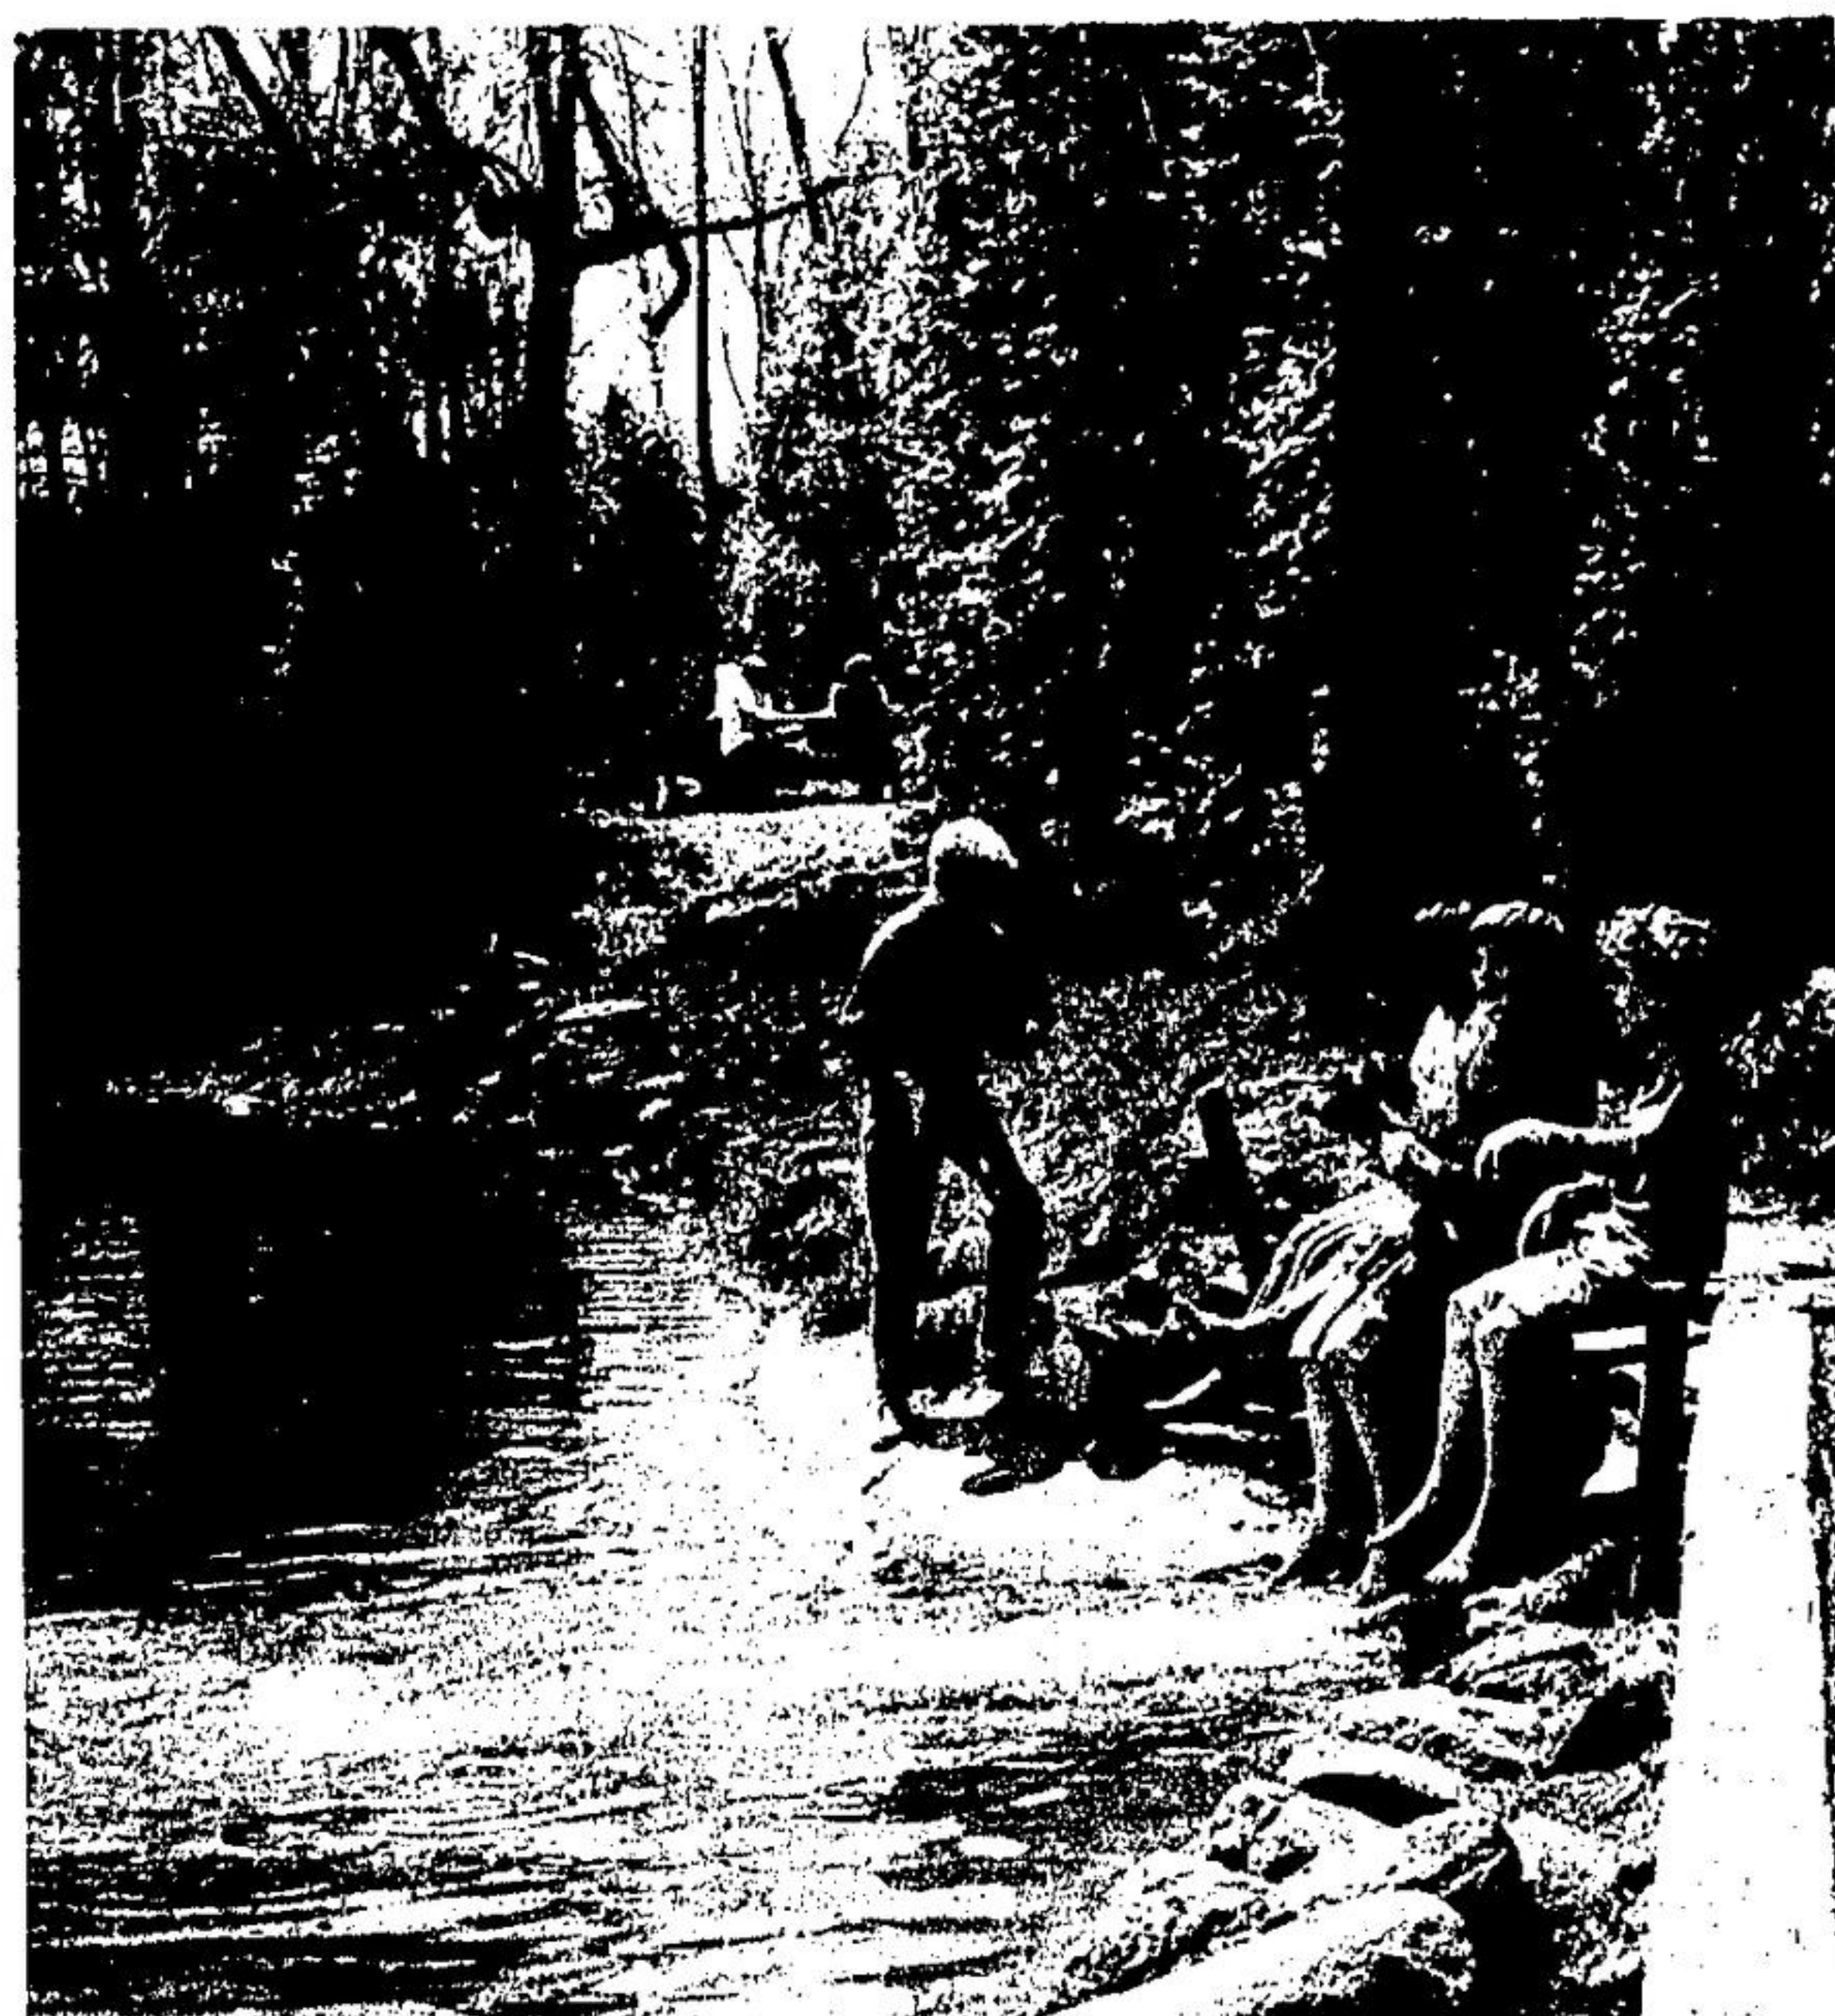

These tours will continue with another 700 children booked for tours before June 18.

Below, Park Public School pupils Doug Douppagne, Jack Hayes, Tommy Hastings, Colin Richards rest their aching feet after the tour.

All are from Georgetown.
