

Programs for Youth, Adults High School Will Be Summertime Beehive

This summer, the Georgetown Parks and Recreation Department plans to operate a youth programme at Georgetown District High School commencing Monday, July 5th.

Among the various athletic activities included will be basketball, football, field hockey, gymnastics, wrestling, European handball, volleyball, floor hockey and badminton. These activities will be operated on both an instructional and team play basis.

DROP-IN BASIS
The cafeteria will be open daily on a drop-in basis with various activities available.

The art room will be open during certain specified hours for those interested in arts and crafts. The shop will be available, afternoons from July 5th to July 16th.

Wednesday night has been allocated as adults night while Friday evenings have been reserved for special events such as dances, movies, and guest speakers.

OUTINGS
Although the programme will revolve around the high school facilities, several outings are being considered. The swimming pool and arena may also be utilized.

The 'youth centre' programme will operate afternoons and evenings Monday through Friday. The afternoon activities are suited to the 12 and over group while the evening programme will involve the 15 and up group.
Registration for the various athletic activities will be conducted on Monday July 5th. Registration times will be published next week.

Merchant's Prize Became Terry's Birthday Present

That's a happy Terry Mostard with the bicycle. He won it in a lucky draw operated by Georgetown Market Merchants, and the timing was perfect. He celebrated his ninth birthday on Sunday. The draw was operated in conjunction with Georgetown Market's Carnival Days. Presenting the bike on behalf of the merchants are Bob Stevenson of Stevenson's Men's Wear, and Mark Hellwell of Eric's Hardware.

Guelph University Graduate

Scholars Happy Wanderers During Bus Trip Season

Trips outside of school, unheard of a few years ago, are now commonplace for students from kindergarten upwards.
The Ontario Science Centre, the McLaughlin Planetarium, the Royal Ontario Museum, and now Ontario Place top the list of attractions but many other spots have also been visited by busloads of eager school children.

Almost all the local schools have taken in the above mentioned places. In addition some grades at Centennial School travelled to the Etobicoke Library, Casa Loma, Halton County Museum, Black Creek Pioneer Village, and were thrilled by a production of "Much Ado About Nothing" at Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

SNOWED IN
Stewarttown School added a visit to O'Keefe Centre to their "Jane Eyre" to their travels. Some of the students went to Ottawa on a three day trip, where they saw the House of Commons, the Science Museum, the mint, the War museum and the aeronautical museum.
Harrison school's visit to the Planetarium was well publicized last winter when they were snowed in all night. The Science Centre and Ontario Place was also on their agenda, plus a special trip for younger students to the circus at Maple Leaf Gardens.

BOAT CRUISE
George Kennedy, the biggest school in the area had pupils visiting a sheep farm, a dairy farm the Toronto Dominion Centre, Riverdale Zoo, the circus, and taking the boat cruise around Toronto harbour, in addition to the Science Centre and the museum.

Park School varied the routine by seeing Terra Cotta Conservation Area, Niagara Falls, local farms, and the Blue Mountain Pottery plant in Collingwood.
Joseph Gibbons School children toured Riverdale Zoo, High Park, the Science Centre and the Planetarium.

Chapel Street school admired both the art work and the surroundings when they went to McMichael Art Gallery in Kleinburg, Ontario Place, High Park and the circus were also on the list.
Wrigglesworth school classes also visited the circus, the Science Centre, Museum, Riverdale Zoo, High Park, and also took in the Martyrs' Shrine in Midland. The harbour cruise around Toronto and Rockwood Park were added adventures for the children.

In The Mail Bag Canada Could Wind Up With Extinct Emblem

17 Normandy Blvd., Georgetown, Ont.

Dear Sir:
I congratulate you and members of our council for their concern regarding our beautiful maple trees, and I sincerely hope that someone can come up with a solution to combat what could wipe out that Canadian emblem.
I have spent a goodly part of this morning looking through hundreds of newspaper clippings taken from our newspapers on issues that I am keenly interested in.
I was looking for a clipping taken from The Telegram at the time of the flag debate and if I can remember the wording, it went like this: "What a pity it would be if sometime in the future, our beautiful maples went the same way as the elm trees?"
Canada would then wind up with a Canadian flag whose emblem would be extinct.
At the time, since I was strongly opposed to a change for our national flag. The thought seemed rather remote.
Imagine my shock and almost disbelief to read in The Herald last week and again this week in your editorial that we may indeed lose our lovely maples.
In my search for the clipping, I came upon another one from The Globe and Mail by Bruce West, Oct. 28th, 1966.
It was headed by these words "A downhill path, and I quote as follows: "Those who are worried about creeping republicanism should have started their objections when the red ensign was disdainfully tossed away in favour of our sorry looking banner. Many did. Including the writer of this column."
But there were apparently not enough of us.
But the day that the red ensign was lowered in this country for the last time, we started on our march toward republicanism. The fight I made in this space, wasn't carried on merely because I thought my flag was a prettier piece of bunting than the flag suggested by someone else.
I fought the adoption of this flag which also came sneaking out of the post office in the form of a postage stamp. For two very good reasons. The most important one was that the change was undoubtedly one of the first great steps toward creating the republic of Canada.
The second was that I thought I sensed behind the motivation of the new flag group, more contempt for the old banner than any deep yearning for a new one.
There were those in this country that would probably have settled for a striped bedsheet, for a flag. "Just as long as we got rid of that shameful red

Many Festivities As Banker Wingrove Retires on Pension

Retiring this week-end on pension as a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce manager, Don Wingrove, 15 Durham Street, has been widely feted by friends and business associates.
Two weeks ago a group of men held a party in his honour at North Halton Golf & Country Club, and presented him with a cheque which will go towards purchase of a travel trailer.
Last week, members of the downtown bank branch, where he has been manager for fifteen years were joined by a group of head office personnel and several men who had served with him at this and other branches as accountants.
The party, also at the North Halton club, was preceded with cocktails at the home of a bank staffer, Mrs. Fred Helson and Mr. Helson.
An engraved silver water pitcher and a television set were find one single shoot that looks like a Dahlia.
I still hope that we can save our lovely maples.
Katherine Cordaro

Among those attending were Ed Burman, now of Kirkland Lake, Lee King of Waterdown, Doug Henderson, Sudbury, Fred Reaney, Blyth and John Harris, Newmarket, all of whom had been with the bank staff here.
Herbert Robinson, Brooklin and Ross McPherson, Toronto, had been with him at the Port Rowan branch.
At another party, a group of thirty rural residents of Esqueving township gathered at the home of Fred Barnes, Ashgrove, and presented him with end tables and lamps.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Klee and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Marks were hosts at a dinner party and presented Mr. and Mrs. Wingrove with a decanter.
The Wingrove name will still be associated with the bank.
Son Grant, who started a banking career last year in Oshawa has just been transferred to Kirkland Lake, where by coincidence, his father started in the bank.
Mr. and Mrs. Wingrove are moving to Brampton this week-end.
