New Voting Formula

A new formula for improving the north-south voting power problems at Halton County Council should be drafted and sent for local councils' approval before the end of this month.

The County Council has been attempting to find an amicable solution to the north-south voting issue since Burlington and Oakville withdrew an attempt earlier this year to gain control of votes at the county level via a private member's bill in the Ontario Legislature.

At the county's last committee meeting the clerk-administrator was asked to draft a formula for increasing representation from the south of the county, at the same time rearranging the voting system so that no two municipalities could control the vote power at the county.

County Council should view the new formula at their July 20 meeting and it will be sent to the seven Halton municipalities for perusal and comments.

One formula being considered would increase Burlington's members on county council from two to four, and Oakville's from two to three. That would up the total membership of county council from 14 to 17.

RECOGNIZE TOP CANDYSTRIPERS

Excellence Award to Denise Thompson

Mrs. C. Doupage, Georgetown hospital's director of nursing, presented the Holloway-Abbott award of excellence to Denise Thompson at the June meeting in the hospital cafeteria. This is an annual award for the Candystriper who has achieved a standard of excellence in performance of her duties.

Denise received a small trophy to keep and her name is inscribed on a plaque which will soon have a permanent display site at the hospital. A Grade 11 student, she has donated 56½ voluntary hours of service.

A bouquet of roses for five years of service with the Candy-stripers was presented to Brenda Eason.

Brenda is one of 50 young women who give valuable assistance to the hospital in a variety of jobs which are done under supervision of the nursing staff.

Brenda, who has just completed her Grade 13 high school course, has 739½ hours of service. The roses were presented by Mrs. Connie Nieuwhof.

NEW AWARD

A new award, in memory of hospital board chairman Leslie Clark, who died in May, was presented on behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary by their president, Mrs. Ann Gray to Nina Phillips. It is for assistance and service. Nina, a Grade 13 student, has 400 hours of service to her credit.

Debbie Pacholok won the Blanche Goudekting mark of progress award, presented by the donor. This is for outstanding progress and is held by the recipient for a year. Debbie, a Grade 11 student, has 400 hours of volunteer service.

CHANGE UNIFORM

To keep up with fashion, the girls have decided, with the nursing director's permission, to change their uniform from dress to pantsuit. To pay for these, they have been working on fund raising projects which included a car wash last winter. Now they are selling tickets on a 50-50 draw.

If sufficient funds are available for the suits to be purchased in September, they have been canny enough to find a buyer for their old uniforms.

400 HOURS

In June, the Candystripers gave some 400 hours of service in the hospital, while keeping up with their school work. The number of hours will increase during the summer months.

Mrs. Arlene Holloway is convener, with Mrs. Phyl York and Mrs. Marion Montgomery as assistants. Membership is open to girls age 14 years, 9 months. A training period is given by a registered nurse.

Father Morgan Retiring

Father V.J. Morgan

In a surprise announcement at a recent mass Father V.J. Morgan told his Acton parishioners he would be retiring as pastor of St. Joseph's Church at the end of August.

Father Morgan's parish included Holy Cross Church Georgetown from 1941 until 1956 when the Capuchin Fathers took over.

A priest for over 49 years, Father Morgan recently celebrated 30 years in the same parish.

Father Morgan will retire in Acton. He anticipated retiring last year and again at the end of June of this year, but acceded to the request of the bishop to stay until the end of August.

Achieving Goal Of Helping Cree

R.R. 2 Georgetown

Mr. Editor:— Well-fed and well-clothed Indians. That was our goal, and we will be achieving that goal, thanks to many people. First of all, I would like to say a special thanks to my mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Aurel Bourque, and my sister Mrs. Sandra Lima, who were involved in this effort with me, and who have carried on by themselves, while I was busy elsewhere.

They are to be highly commended for unselfishly giving all their spare time. I know they didn't do all this for a pat on the back, but they deserve it anyway, for a job well done.

Also thank you to my husband Bob, my brother Mike, my sister Debbie, Mr. Doug McFarlane, Mr. John Graff, Mr. Jim Clitcheil and the members of the Streetsville Rotary Club for helping us to unload the three tons of clothing that were donated.

Of course there are many more names and I would love to mention you all, but I would need at least four full pages of The Herald to do this.

To all the private people, to the companies, the businessmen, and the Board of Education, who were willing to help their fellow men, thank you all so very much, and God Bless you all.

Yours truly,
Gloria Warren

The opera, "The Mikado," was temporarily banned by the British, who feared the Japanese might be offended. They were reassured by the Japanese ambassador, who found it delightful.
