

Presentation to Rev. and Mrs. N. Young

Knox Presbyterian Church minister Reverend Norman Young and Mrs. Young hold the silver tea service with which they were presented at a farewell buffet in Knox hall, Sunday. The tea service and a purse of money were parting gifts from the congregation. Mr. Young, who has been the minister at Knox since June 1961, will become minister of Duff's Church, Morriston. About 275 were served at the buffet where Robert Alexander, Clerk of Sessions was master of ceremonies, and Ron Lyttle, chairman of the Board of Managers, read the presentation letter.

Attendance Squabble

"Too Smart for Britches" McArthur Says of Morrow

"You're too smart for your britches", snapped Reeve Anna MacArthur, to Reeve Ric Morrow of Georgetown when he said he couldn't be at a meeting even by 3 p.m., "when madame reeve usually makes it". Reeve MacArthur demanded the clerk show by the attendance lists that she is always at the meetings on time. Storming at Reeve Ric Morrow, she said, "You want to arrange the meetings to suit you, on the days when you're not flying".

TOUCHY The hassle between the Nassagaweya reeve and the Georgetown reeve broke out when a date was being arranged for a special meeting to discuss a special study committee report on restructuring committees, a touchy subject at county council. The report recommends the Museum Board be required to surrender its charter, and be administered by the new Finance, Museum, Property and Personnel Committee, of which Ric Morrow is tentatively listed as chairman. The number of committees would be reduced from 10 to five. LIVESLY Additional duties are suggested for the county. Those responsibilities include conservation as presently handled by the provincial government in conjunction with the local municipality; Children's Aid Societies, county fire and police departments, waste disposal, engineering, planning and a county legal department. The October 1 committee of the whole meeting to discuss these controversial items promises to be lively.

Fruits and vegetables decorated St. Paul's Anglican Church last Sunday for its harvest thanksgiving service. Rev. Ron Stubble, a former rector of Cayuga as a probation officer, was the guest preacher. He said we should be thankful for spiritual gifts like the Bible, the Sacraments and the program of the Church - and the best way to do that is to be receptive when they are offered.

The Dewhurst family provided home-made bread for the communion service, and the Coomber family gave the home-made wine.
