Bishop Ryan Officially Opens Second Catholic School

The Most Reverend Joseph F. Ryan, Bishop of Hamilton, blessed and officially opened Georgetown's second separate school last Wednesday night.

Addressing a capacity audience in the auditorium of the new St. Francis of Assisi school at the corner of Sinclair and Duncan Bishop Ryan said, "Religious outlook is most important in separate schools, but religion has to begin at home. We need an emphasis on Christian values today."

He urged parents to develop a real sense of responsibility in their children, and quoted Archbishop Fulton Sheen saying, "Our obligation today is to give Christ to the student."

JUNIOR GRADES St. Francis of Assisi school is the 20th separate school in Halton and the fifth of the open concept design. It is the 150th separate school in Bishop Ryan's diocese.

Designed to accommodate up to 35 children it is a junior school with classes from kindergarten to grade six.

The 19,500 square foot school has one kindergarten, eight open teaching areas in two open, rectangular rooms, a large classroom for music and oral lessons, a small classroom for oral and small group study, a library, and a general purpose room with change rooms.

General contractor Whitney Construction Limited built it to the plan of architect Michael Torsney. Halton County Separate School Board chairman Dr. L. Braida, and members J. R. Visser, William English, J. P. Hourigan, A. Tonelli, and P. A. Walters served on the building committee.

The total cost involved was $350,530. Of that, $268,324 was for the general contract, $35,548 for carpet, fence, landscaping and millwork, $26,500 for furniture and equipment, and $16,918 for architect and engineering fees.

Georgetown's member on the Halton County Separate School Board, Harley Sherk was chairman for the official opening a highlight of which was the presentation of the key.

CHOIR Mayor Bill Smith, liaison consultant Len McNeal, and Dr. Braida, also spoke. St. Francis of Assisi principal Joseph Huston introduced his staff, and assistant superintendent Miss K. Kenefick introduced Bishop Ryan and he was thanked by superintendent Clifford Byrnes. Father Otger DeVent offered prayer.

A children's choir directed by Mrs. Benoit entertained with three selections, one of them the Prayer to St. Francis.

The auditorium was also decorated with children's art showing experiences in the life of the saint for which the school was named.

Visitors toured the school at the program's conclusion.

Vote to Pay Esqueuing Library Bd.

Esqueuing council, Monday night, voted to pay the members of the newly created Esqueuing Library Board $20 per meeting, including the secretary treasurer, who is not a member.

The library board members in Milton, Acton and Georgetown receive no pay.

The Esqueuing Library Board members are Mrs. Donald Wilson, Mrs. A. J. Markham, Mrs. Annie Berry and Mrs. Ronald Lister.

Wax Rinse No Sewage Threat

With assurance from the Ontario Water Resources Commission that waste from a final wax rinse would pose no threat to the sewage treatment system, council on Monday voted to permit a "partial reclamation system" for two proposed car washes on Guelph Street.

The motion carried on a 6-3 vote, with Crs. Denison, Siddall and Levy opposing it.

No Sunday Taxis, Council Concerned

A taxi by-law amendment which would set a liability clause at $50,000, instead of $200,000, as council originally proposed, hit a snag Monday when it came to a vote at council.

Even Cr. Levy and Denison, who made the by-law motion, were against it when the vote was taken. Deputy Reeve Speight and Cr. Hyde were the only supporters in a 7-2 turnout.

The by-law amendment hit a snag when council discussed a recent move of taxi firms in suspending service on Sundays.

SUNDAY SERVICE "We are co-operating with them in reducing the liability clause," said Cr. Hyde. "I'll vote for the by-law but we should hold the third and final reading until we see what's what about Sunday service."

"We shouldn't bargain for service with insurance coverage," said Cr. Siddall. "I carry $200,000 on my car and taxis should do the same."

He said the taxi by-law requires service at all times from licensed operators. Deputy Reeve Speight reminded councillors that taxi operators had said that carrying more than $50,000 insurance would be prohibitive and they couldn't stay in business if this was demanded.

"The government sets $50,000 as the figure," said Cr. Hyde. "Most towns only require this and Toronto only sets $100,000."

Mayor Smith said he is disturbed about no Sunday service and wants to meet with taximen to discuss it.

"We certainly should have seven day service in town," he said. Cr. Levy said council had accepted the taxi operators' plea that $200,000 is prohibitive, and that the firm with which they are insured will not contract for this.

KICKING "We're bending backwards and they're kicking us," he said. "I can't vote for this by-law even though I put my name on the motion."

After the by-law amendment was defeated, clerk-administrator Douglas Pritchard reminded council that the existing by-law requires liability insurance of $200,000 and a licence is subject to being revoked if this clause is not fulfilled.

"We'll be hearing from the taximen," commented one councillor.

Snowmobile By-Law Snags On Use of Parklands

Still hitting snags, a by-law governing operation of snowmobiles again was delayed when its third and final reading came up at Monday's council meeting.

With all councillors favouring most of the by-law, a dispute arose about spelling out in what parks, snowmobiles would be allowed.

The by-law allows regulation of this by the Recreation Committee, without spelling out any definite areas.

After a lengthy debate, the by-law was withdrawn for further committee study. And the Recreation Committee was asked to submit a map of areas in parks which it considered suitable for this fast-growing winter sport.

BANNED The by-law bans operation of snowmobiles in town between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. and at all times on Guelph and Main Streets, except to make a crossing.

The vehicles cannot be used on school grounds where the town has established skating rinks. They cannot be used on median strips, sidewalks or boulevards. They are banned from public parks, unless authorized by the Recreation Committee.

No one under age 16 can operate a snowmobile, except on private property with the owner's permission.

A penalty of $10 for first offence, and $50 for each subsequent offence is provided.

ALL THE PEOPLE Cr. Ern Hyde led the faction which disputes the regulation concerning parks. Deputy Reeve Speight supported him.

"Parks are for all the people," he maintained.

The deputy said there is not the damage to grass which some would have one believe. "They are allowed on golf courses," he pointed out.

Cr. Phil Siddall explained that the Recreation Committee is entrusted with park operation and is the logical governing body.

CONFUSING "The by-law allows flexibility," said Cr. Donna Denison, who is a member of the Recreation Committee. "If there is a heavy snow, the machines could go places where at other times they might be banned."

"This would be confusing," said Cr. Ernest Sykes.

"We can't say yes at one time and no at another, or it will get hopelessly confused," he said.

SMALL PARKS Reeve Ric Morrow said he wants snowmobiles banned from small parks like Gibbons where noise can disturb neighbours.

"But I don't favour a ban on all parks," he said. "We should name areas where they will be allowed so the public will know."

Cr. Hyde said it would be impossible for the Recreation Committee to keep on top of snow conditions, and he wants areas spelled out in the by-law.

"They've had all summer to do this," he said. "A great deal of Cedarvale Park is ideal for this sport."

HORSEFEATHERS

Reeve Morrow said safety and noise are his main concerns and this restricts some town parkland, but he also expects the Recreation Committee to lay out trails where snowmobiles can be used.

"I thought the Committee and the Snowmobile Club had done this," said Mayor Smith.

"There's a lot of horsefeathers going on," observed Cr. Siddall. He said the Snowmobile Club had been contacted three times and third reading of the by-law had been delayed, but nothing has been heard from them.

Cr. Hyde disputed this. He said the club had asked for parts of Cedarvale and had been refused.

BACKWARDS Cr. Denison if the Committee could tell him what trails would be established. With a negative answer, he said he could not favour passing the by-law that night.

Cr. Denison claimed that the whole matter is backwards.

"We're waiting for the by-law to be passed so we have the authority to make a decision on the use of parks," she said.

"This is a small town and we all know each other," said Cr. Joan Smith. "Surely council, snowmobilers and Recreation Committee can get together and solve the problem. I hate to see different groups opposing each other."

The by-law motion was withdrawn for further committee discussion Thursday.

Adjustment, Recreation Members are to be Paid

With council members to be paid $250 next year with a $30 deduction for each council or committee meeting missed, on Monday fees were also established for two town-appointed boards.

The Recreation Committee members will receive $10 per meeting attended. Committee of Adjustment members will have a yearly fee of $440 with $10 deductions for meetings missed.

A motion that councillors, appointed to boards, not be paid other than their $2500 salary next year was defeated on a close 5-4 vote.

All motions excluded the mayor, who, besides his annual salary, is a paid member of the police, water and hydro commissions.

UNFAIR ONUS Reeve Ric Morrow, in making the motion to discontinue board fees for councillors, said an unfair onus is placed on the mayor in making appointments when he has to be concerned about extra pay.

He said a new county council system has established a flat salary and has alleviated problems for the warden when he makes appointments.

Deputy-Reeve Speight said town business is different from the county, particularly regarding the Planning Board.

HEAVY LOAD "This board has a heavy work load and you're asking councillors who serve on it to work an extra evening with no remuneration," he said.

He said he is a member of the county's two heaviest committees, roads and Halton Manor, but receives the same pay as any other councillor.

The motion was favoured by Reeve Morrow and Crs. Denison, Smith and Levy. It was lost on the negative votes of Mayor Smith, Deputy Reeve Speight and Crs. Hyde, Siddall and Sykes.

PAY ALL Mayor Smith said he hopes there will be recommendations to pay all appointed boards before the year-end.

"All are deserving of pay," he said. "They play an important part in the community, and we shouldn't pay one and not another. (Provincial legislation precludes pay for Library Board members, but council can set fees for any other board.)"

Mrs. Kay Dwyer with Justice Dept. 25 Years

A party at the North Halton Golf and Country Club recently, hosted by Judge Kenneth Langdon, marked 25 years of service with the Department of Justice for Kay Dwyer.

She was presented with a watch and cut an anniversary cake. Deputy Minister of Justice A. A. Russell attended the party and presented a personal letter from Minister of Justice Allan Lawrence, in which was enclosed a 25 year service pin. She has been invited to the quarter century banquet for civil servants in the Royal York.

When Mrs. Dwyer began working for Judge Langdon, who was then a deputy magistrate, the office was on Mill Street. Later they moved to offices above Gougeon's store, and now are located at 24B Main Street above the Herald office.

Mrs. Dwyer started clerking in the court, and went on to become a court reporter.

Teachers Curriculum Development

Ramautarsingh Conducts Conference Discussions

Tom Ramautarsingh, President of Halton Secondary School Teachers' Federation attended the three day Ontario Association for Curriculum Development Conference held at the Cleary Auditorium in Windsor.

Over 800 delegates, including education administrators, trustees, teachers, consultants, publishers and students were in attendance.

The theme of the conference was "Values in the Curriculum," with the keynote address given by the famous educator Sir Alec Clegg, Chief Education Officer for West Riding of Yorkshire, England.

"What ethical and emotional values should children be learning in school? Or should they be learning any?" was the question he posed. He admonished educators to avoid the superficial, and to question all dogmas, cults and fashions. In a lengthy speech filled with anecdotes and quotations from British educators, he stressed the importance of the teacher's role in recognizing and filling the needs of children in order to give them any sense of values, honesty, self-respect, respect for others, confidence, courage, compassion and initiative.

HIGH AND SINCERE "There are certain fundamental principles which must be borne in mind," said the speaker, "For example, nothing really works in depth in the education we provide, unless it stems from the teacher's deeply held conviction."

Continuing, he said, "Nothing works unless the teacher's expectations are high and sincere, in relation to the ability of each child; nothing works unless the child achieves a measure of recognition," he stated.

Sir Alec stated there are four basic parts in any person's education, the basic skills, reading, writing and arithmetic, the content of the curriculum, the cultivation of the creative powers of the child, and the development of values. He concluded by saying the teacher must accomplish this by recognizing in each child his individual needs and filling them.

In his banquet speech Robert Welch, Minister of Education, said the schools cannot avoid the area of values. "Conflicts will arise, but the school must realize this and new alternatives must be found," he said.

"We must help the student to organize, plan and make positive decisions," said the Education Minister. In conclusion he maintained schools could no longer stay away from controversial topics, which must be looked at in a mature concerned and balanced manner.

VALUES Tom Ramautarsingh was part of a three man team who conducted the discussions on the sub-topic, "Will man's future depend on what he values?" "Will it depend on the way he ranks his values?"

In the final session the election of officers and the council was held, with the following results.

President, Dr. R. W. Torrens, 1st V.P., Miss Jeanne Seguin, 2nd V.P., Mrs. Margaret Keeler, sec. treasurer, Miss Nora Hodgins.

Council Members: Wally Beever, S. L. G. Chapman, Miss Gloria Fralick, Gerald Levert, B. M. Webb, Lorne Cassidy, Vernon McReady, John Sterret, Stan Reid, Ian McHaffie, Gary Black, Peter Gubbins, Robert Dixon, Mrs. Elise Gussberg, and Tom Ramautarsingh.

Welland Likes it Wild Win Squeaker from Raiders

Two Georgetown Raiders ended up watching Friday's Niagara Peninsula Intermediate A League game with Welland from the sidelines.

Neil Cotton was shown the way out late in the first period and Junior Tibbets got the heave ho in the second period of a wild and woolly contest that ended in a 8-6 Welland win.

The visiting Welland crew notched the winning goal with just a minute and a half to play; 24 seconds after Raiders had created a 6-all tie.

Welland's eighth goal was scored into an empty net.

An indication of the kind of night the 500-plus fans were in for came when Raiders' Lance Doucette and Welland Boots Beauriant discovered each other in the first period which drew 10 minutes in multiple minor penalties. Doucette was slapped with a charging penalty and two roughing calls, while Beauriant got a double minor for roughing.

THIRD MAN Georgetown's Paul Robinson and Welland net minder Tom Cottringer tangled in the fight that led to Cotton's ejection. He was given a ticket in the gallery for being third man into the scrap.

Junior Tibbets sounded off to the officials too loud and too long at 2:15 of the second period and joined his teammate among the spectators with a game misconduct.

The second half of the game saw just six penalties, all of them for minor infractions.

JUST AS MANY Raiders had just two goals on the board and trailed 4-2 entering the third, and while they doubled that output in the next 20 minutes Welland had just as many replies.

Paul Robinson looked like the same P.R. who copped a league scoring title before his year out of intermediate hockey as he scored three times for Georgetown.

Five Points Three assists made it a five point night for Lane. Terry Holmes and Jim Blair were in on two scoring plays, and Robinson added another point with an assist on Lane's second goal.

Beauriant was Welland's hero with three goals in succession. Brian Law was a two goal man, and Duane Rutley, Jerry Maney, and Brian Angelo fired singletons.

ERIE BACK Angelo was the empty net effort with 12 seconds to go. Law's second one was the one that won it at 18:28.

Raiders continue their string of 10 Friday night home games tomorrow night when Fort Erie comes to town for the second visit in three weeks. Last trip, Raiders were 6-5 winners.

Esqueuing council authorized the reeve and clerk to sign the Georgetown Esqueuing fire agreement, Monday night.

They were also authorized to sign an agreement with the county of Halton for the sale of .14 acres of land on the 7th line in Stewarttown. The land will be used by the county for road purposes.

Set New Route for Lions Santa Parade

The Lions Club Santa Claus parade route has been changed this year. As usual the parade will form at Mountainview and Sinclair, and will proceed down Sinclair, through Georgetown Market Centre past the new Zeller's store and onto the highway.

It will move down the highway to Maple Avenue, turn here onto Maple as far as Main Street, then straight up Main Street and onto the highway again at the top of Main Street hill.

It will enter the highway again here, and move to Moore Park Plaza where the parade will disband.

Judging of floats will be done from a location on Main Street as the parade passes by.

Saturday, December 4 is the day set by the Lions for this annual parade.

10 Years Older

A story in last week's Herald stated the big brick farmhouse on the old Hills homestead at Ballinlad was built in 1866. It should have been 1876.

Esqueuing Asked to Close, Open 10th Line

Applications to have the unopened portion of the 10th line, north of 27 sideroad, both closed and opened, were heard Monday night at Esqueuing council.

In a letter to council, Mrs. Irene Wheeler asked that the unopened portion of the 10th line north of 27 sideroad, through to the junction with given road at the corner of Dillon's pond, be permanently closed.

BUILDHOUSE Later in the evening Dr. Jack Kerby, speaking for Dr. Harry Greig and Tom Reed, who were present, asked that the road be opened. He said he owns a farm there and wants to build a house.

Held council the C. V. C. A. had taken an option on 168 acres of the land forcing him to build on the other side of the land, where there is no access. Kerby suggested the logical place to end the road would be at Harry Logan's quarry.

KNEW IT "You people know there was no road when you bought that property," reeve Tom Hill commented. "If you want to open it at your own expense, it will have to be 66' wide and brought up to the standards of the Department of Highways," added the reeve. In reply to a question from Tom Reed, the reeve admitted that the road would not have to be up to Department standards if the township was not asked to take it over or maintain it in any way.

Lay 181 Charges During October Five hundred and twenty-five dollars in fines were imposed in October as a result of charges laid by Georgetown police according to the department's monthly activity report.

It said 181 charges were laid and 247 parking tags issued during the month.

Arrests totalled 20 and summons issued 108.

In all, 472 complaints were investigated by the department.

Thirteen of the month's 19 motor vehicle accidents involved damage of over $200 and resulted in seven injuries. Sixteen driving charges were laid.

There were six break-ins, 14 thefts of over $50 and 10 of less than that. Four car thefts, three frauds, and seven missing persons were also entered in the occurrence book.
