Georgetown's 4-Town teams travel to Streetsville this Saturday, March 18, to try and regain some of their lost reputation as a good hockey town. Last year, due to conflict with the Newmarket tournament, Georgetown's house league sent their second teams and took their lumps. However, this year's contingent looks powerful from the Novice through to the Midgets. The Midgets are already in the finals after defeating Orangeville this past week. The Novices go against Streetsville at 7:15, with the Pee Wees playing Acton at 8:10. The Bantams tangle with Orangeville at 12:10 in the Streetsville arena. Come, see and support your local teams and the fellows that play on them.
