Raider Rooter
Does His Cheering In Sign Style

What kind of a Raider hockey fan cheers his team without giving the vocal chords a workout? The answer is, one in the sign painting business. Frank Hardy of Hardy Signs is a valuable member of the Raider rooters since his method of rooting is constant through every period of every game. He does his cheering with a brush and then plasters the results throughout the Memorial Arena at points where both Raiders and their Intermediate A opposition can't miss them - on the south end wall, behind the players benches and even in the penalty boxes. An additional benefit to being a sign painter Raider fan is that you can indulge in remote cheering - that's boosting your favourite club at games you can't get to. During the playoffs just completed, Frank's messages made it Brantford and Welland in the hands of other devotees who taped them to walls or flashed them on Raider scoring plays. But, even with painted words saying it all on his behalf, Frank can't stifle that natural urge and ends up just as hoarse as the non-painters after a close game.

This Could Beat
NHL Playoffs

Vying for interest with the NHL playoffs, television viewers will be able to see some young local faces on television next Monday. When Georgetown Firefighters, of the Tri-County Major Novice hockey league, played in a Penetang tournament in February, the entire game was filmed by Cable TV there. The team had advanced to the finals, but were beaten by the home team in the championship game. Arrangements have been made to borrow the film and Georgetown Cable TV has agreed to telecast it next Monday at 7:00 p.m.

LINEUP

For those who will be watching, Georgetown players, with their sweater numbers are: 1. Dave Abbott, 2. Mark Euteneier, 3. John Barnes, 4. Brock Street, 5. Bill Taylor, 6. Mike McPaul Morrow, 9.
