Mrs. Aileen Bradley, Mrs. Ernie Hyde, Mrs. Ted Lawrence and Mrs. Marguerite Taylor were top players for the night. They received the Clare Lanstra trophy at this week's club meeting, with individual small replicas which they will keep. Mr. Lanstra, a Brampton man and club member, donated the trophy recently.

Following Nancy's talk a second number by the Grand Slam quartet was enjoyed and Mrs. Haight put on a short "skit". Inspection, Parade At High School, Monday

by Frank Bull

Annual Inspection May 29 this time next week we will be able to look back and say "That was our best ever". Each year we have been able to say this!

Remember the year we prayed for rain? Moved inside the armoury and got a deluge in the most spectacular thunderstorm of the year. I guess we prayed a little too hard, however, the point is, the problems we thought we had didn't really exist and we were way up in points time we were assessed.

It's unfortunate that certain items of the blue uniform are getting difficult to replace as stocks diminish. Shoes are the major problem, but remember, this fact is known to the inspection team. We will be assessed by our department, the crease in our pants and the shine on our shoes. Some of our new cadets will be wearing civilian style shoes. The same policy applies - shine 'em, Oh yes, one other thing, don't forget the brass.

To parents, friends and public, join us for an hour, the interest you show by attending this parade will be of immeasurable significance to these lads.

PRIZE WINNER
I said a couple of weeks ago that I felt our trip to North Bay should be described by a cadet, not myself. Our sponsoring committee agreed and offered a prize for the best essay. Printed below is the prize winning essay entered by Cadet Stephen Kitchener.

But No Foreman

Emphasis on Parks Will Add 4 Town Employees

More attention to parks will be paid this year, with council deciding to add four men to the works department, who would be detailed mainly to park maintenance.

The plan falls short of what Cr. Donna Denson envisaged - a complete parks force with a foreman in charge.

She told council Monday she is disappointed, because the Recreation and Parks Committee has responsibility for the parks, but cannot direct employees.

Cr. Joan Smith agreed with her and said that it should be one way or the other.

NOT ENOUGH
Cr. Phil Siddall said that the committee which had discussed this doesn't feel a four-man department justifies a separate foreman. He said there are times when there would not be enough parks work to keep four men busy, and it is better to have them under direction of the town foreman, who would work in close conjunction with the recreation group.

Proponents of the separate foreman did not press their point at Monday's meeting and said they would accept a try-out of the plan.

Limehouse WMS Sets $231 For Allocation

Mrs. Bert Benton was hostess for the May meeting of the WMS, when fourteen attended. Mrs. Mitchell attended by reading a prayer hymn. Scripture from Matthew 18 was read by Mrs. Roughley and Mrs. Appleyard led in prayer.

Supply money is to be handed in at the June meeting at Mrs. Lindsay's. The treasurer reported an allocation for 1972 of $231. Roll call, and text word "offend" was answered in a verse of scripture and a number reported a current event.

Mrs. Sanford, with several members reading scripture verses, read biblical explanations. Mrs. A. W. Benton reported attending a meeting regarding a fall rally. The hostess served refreshments after the meeting.

We regret that Mrs. Kirkpatrick has returned to hospital for treatment, and hope for her return to better health soon.

Mr. Al Marshall and Miss Eileen of Toronto visited Mrs. Oshorn during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingram and twin sons of Unionville and Mr. and Mrs. Banish of Toronto visited their son and daughter Beverley and Randy Banish on Mother's Day.

Miss Blanche Brigham, R.N. of Haney, B.C. has returned home after a month with her sister, Mrs. J. Roughley and family. While here she was a guest at the Roughley-Mackenzie wedding a week ago.

Bay. We arrived there at approximately 11:00 a.m. We, the cadets ate at the base mess hall and the officers ate at the officers' mess. After lunch we were taken a short way to the entrance of the cave, then we went through security and onto another bus. The Sage complex is several hundred feet below this surface, cut through solid rock. It was completed in 1962 at a cost of 55 million dollars. The north tunnel which we used to enter the complex was so long that by the time we reached the bottom we had lost sight of the top of the tunnel. We were taken into a briefing room and told some of the facts about the complex and the area that they control. We were then split into two groups according to our four numbers and were escorted through the complex.

First we enter the "Blue Room", this is where all the tracking and control of missile and planes is done. A controller may determine height, amount of fuel left in the airplane, and they may tell what manoeuvre to use and the armament to use on the target.

They used to control the Bomarc missiles until they were moved to the United States recently, when they were here they could be on their way to the target in 11 seconds.

We then moved downstairs to the computer room, here were memory banks, computer banks, etc. We then moved into the control room where the information is fed through a master computer and onto cards which are stored for future reference.

We then went upstairs to the surveillance room and then back to the briefing room where questions were answered. We then proceeded back to get on the bus. As we were leaving we noticed one of the security measures, a 20 ton door!

We then left the base and were allowed to have an hour in North Bay to eat supper. We were told that anyone who was late would get the treatment at the back of the bus; I'll leave you to guess who was late. We arrived back in Georgetown at about 9:00 p.m. I know everyone enjoyed themselves and it was a chance in a lifetime to see what I think is one of the seven wonders of the world.
