

Record Enrolment at Night School Registration

Registration at Georgetown High School last Tuesday indicates a growing interest in evening courses. A record enrolment resulted

In the formation of classes in Welding, Typing, Office Procedures, Interior Decorating, Keep Fit for Women, Furniture Refinishing, Hostess, Automobile Maintenance, Small Engines, Oil Painting, Pottery, three sewing classes and Cottage and Home maintenance.

Classes will begin the week of October 2 and continue through the winter.

Local interest seemed particularly high in sewing, pottery and typing.

Cottage and Home maintenance is being offered for the first time and involves instruction in minor repairs throughout the home or cottage including plumbing, masonry, electrical appliances, insulation etc. Mr. Newman the teacher of the course will be guided to a certain extent by questions from the class.

Enrolment was small in some classes, consequently there are still openings in Welding, Hostess, Furniture Refinishing, Cottage and Home maintenance and Interior Decorating.

NOT ENOUGH Considerable interest was indicated in several other areas, but numbers were not high enough to warrant formation of a class at present.

Grade 13 credit courses, English as a second language and conversational French are close to formation and registrations will be accepted until September 29 in the hope these classes will be formed. Interested parties may register at Georgetown high school or at the Adult Education office, Guelph Line, Burlington.

Watch for Changes in Stop Streets

The present stop sign at Church and Charles Streets will be removed and two others erected. A three way stop sign will go up at Princess Anne and Charles Street, and a four way sign at Park and Charles.

Council accepted the recommendation of the works committee and passed the motion Monday night.

Cr. Donna Denison said the change would be a great help to the children attending Park school.

Museum Notes Norval Georgetown Donations Added to Collection

by Judith Goebelle
Halton County Museum, Kelso Park, Milton is one of the sixteen places of interest listed in your "Passport to Halton." The 25c adult admission to the Museum will be waived the next three weekends for visitors with "Passports," and there is no fee at the park entrance in the fall. The museum gardens are especially beautiful in the autumn, and they provide an attractive setting for the numerous buildings open for your enjoyment.

A variety of items have been given to the museum by Georgetown residents this year. Mr. and Mrs. L. Heed, Park Street, donated an old Monarch Remington typewriter, adding to the museum's growing collection of early office equipment. Mrs. John Ewing gave an assortment of Victorian lady's clothing - varying from silk lingerie to tortoise-shell hair combs, insulators, sealers, and dress forms were received from Mr. and Mrs. G. Goebelle, Edith Street. Miss C. Boomer, Main Street, sent a turn-of-the-century Eaton wringer; and from Mrs. W. Brownridge, Maple Avenue - two wooden spreaders for dressing beef in earlier times, and an old print of champion race horse "Dan Patch"

Walter Reeves, chairman of the Halton County Museum Board, was recently appointed to the board of trustees of the Royal Ontario Museum, by the provincial government. Mr. Reeves has been a member of the County Museum Board since its inception ten years ago. He is also president of the Burlington Historical Society, and has been involved with the Joseph Brant Museum for many years. During the past decade, the Halton County Museum has grown from a deserted farm site to an excellent and ever expanding treasury of county artifacts. Mr. Reeves has contributed greatly to this growth, and the museum board will miss his counsel in the future.

BLUSHING BEAUTIES ON THE BRANCHES

Trees in district orchards are bowed by the weight of a large fruit crop these days and the pick-your-own business is flourishing. Here, John Rigby relieves branches of a Roy Laidlaw apple tree of some ruddy Macs.

Gail Crocker, Sue Higby and Joanne Sibley display the fruit of their labours.

They were picking apples at the Roy Laidlaw orchard near Norval when The Herald paid a visit.
