

Heggie Portrait Town Artist's Work

A portrait of Major Colin Heggie, G.M., E.D., C.D., was unveiled at a testimonial dinner in Brampton Armoury Friday. The picture, painted by R.R.3 Georgetown artist Dorothy Stone, will hang in the Lorne Scots officers' mess.

Dr. Heggie served overseas with the regiment from 1940 to 1941, then returning to Canada where he served in military hospitals at Camp Borden and Niagara.

GEORGE MEDAL
He received the George Medal, for saving many lives after a high explosive bomb fell near an English army barracks.

At 72, Dr. Heggie, a third generation family doctor, is still making house calls in Brampton. His sons have not followed the family profession, one is a mechanic, the other a surveyor.

Rallies of Presbyterian Grade Sixers Turn New Successful Format Ice Age Studies Into TV Program

The Brampton Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society this year embarked on a new venture regarding fall rallies. Instead of a concentrated effort as a single rally as before, it became a four-pronged project consisting of four rallies under the chairmanship of the president and four adult group leaders.

The area embracing some 34 churches was divided into four separate areas, each holding a rally. All have been successful.

Orangeville, under Mrs. Frank Gamble, held the first rally in September. Mrs. Paul Rumball, guest speaker, spoke on China, pointing out in 1895 there were 641 missionaries in China but in 1951 they were ejected from the country. Mrs. H. Reed, president of Presbyterian used as her text, "The place wherein thou standest is holy ground".

TALKS ON TAIWAN
Hopedale, Oakville, held their rally later in September with the theme being, "One body, one spirit". Rev. L. de Groot, minister of Dixie, was guest speaker. He had just returned from Taiwan, and noted many changes since 1941.

He said the small Korean churches in Japan are doing splendid work. Mr. de Groot felt that his five and one-half years there were not in vain.

The third rally was held in St. Andrew's Church, Brampton with Mrs. Florence Weber presiding. Mrs. Marley sang a new hymn to the tune of "All Through The Night".

A unique presentation of devotions was undertaken by Georgetown women reading from Galatians. This presentation was in the form of a humorous skit taken in a doctor's office assisted by his nurse. Some patients portrayed represented many of today's women, when they are asked to accept an office or responsibility, such as Mrs. All Run Down.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION
Dr. Albert E. Bailey was guest speaker. He has had much experience in Christian education, both as lecturer and consultant. A question and answer period followed his talk with Lois Powrie assisting.

The last rally was held in Acton in October under the leadership of Mrs. Alex Moore.

Just studying the ice age wasn't enough for a grade six class at Holy Cross Separate School, Thursday, they produced their own TV program on the subject.

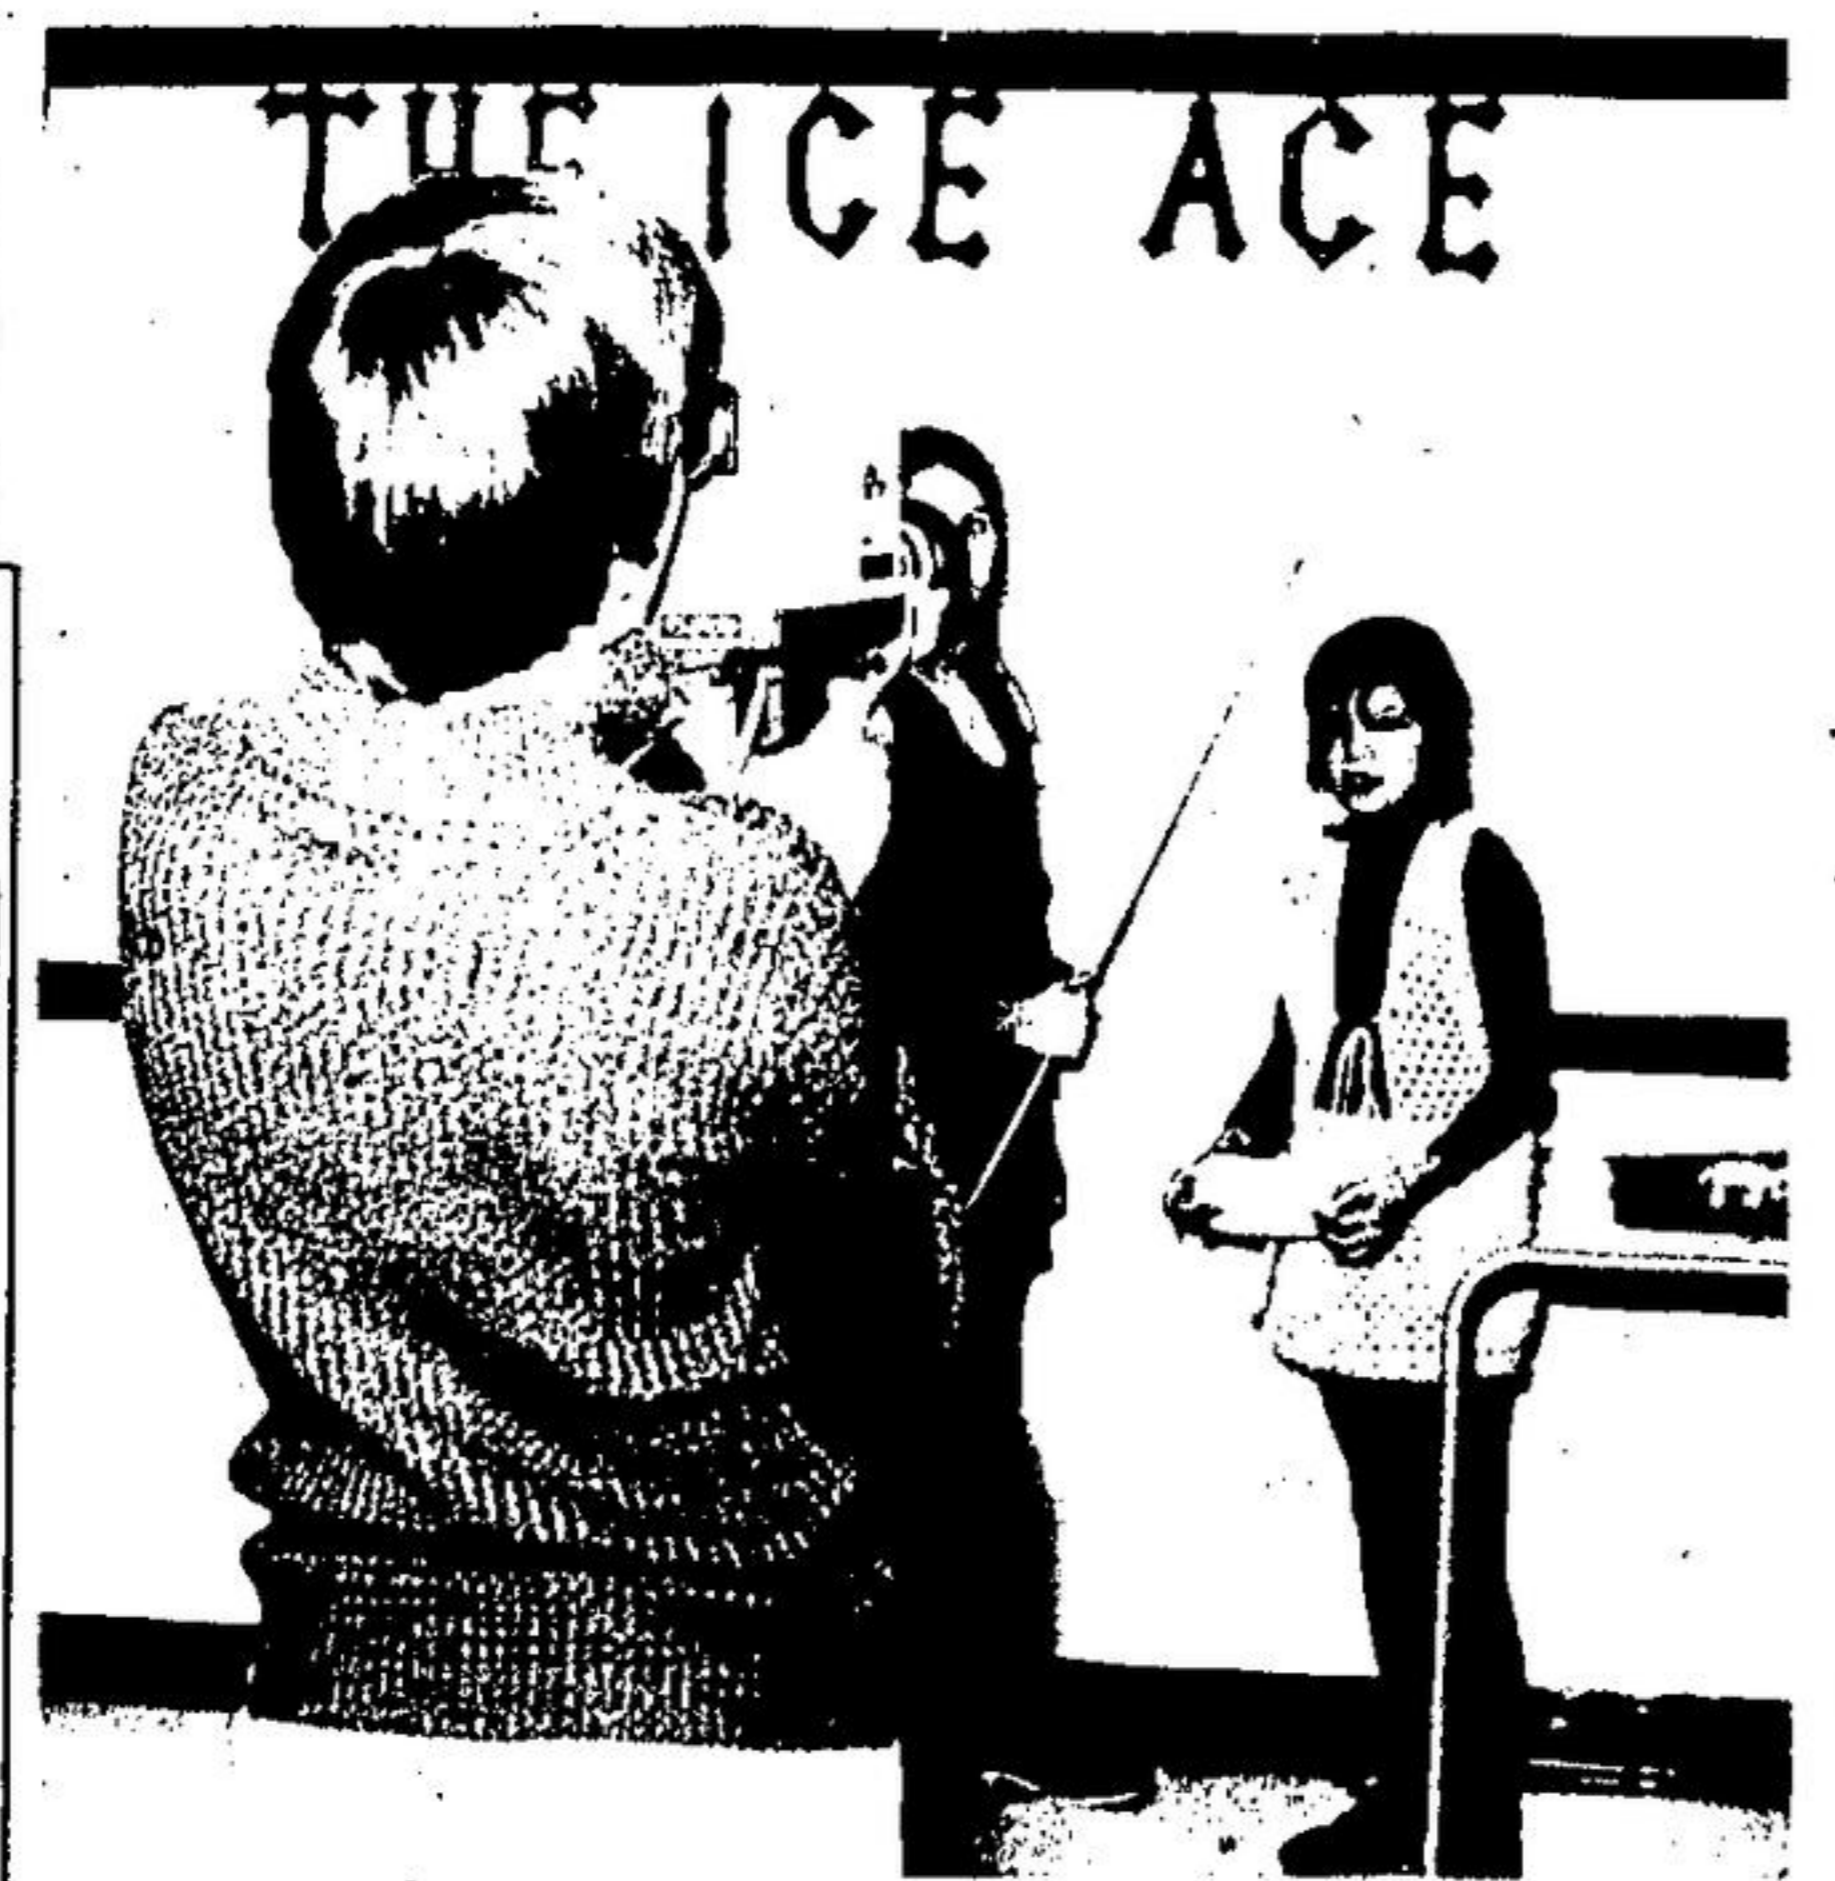

The filming, for which the school board's video-type camera was borrowed, was done Friday afternoon with the assistance of two grade eight students, Paul McAuley and Paul MacDonald, who became cameramen after a quick training session.

Teacher John Luciani's class studied glaciation and the landforms produced by glaciers in social studies class for the past month, and even had school principal Richard Perrot address them on the subject since he has an acquired knowledge of geology from his university studies.

WEEK'S REHEARSAL
Because the interest gained in studying glaciers, the grade sixers also briefly researched prehistoric animals which lived during the ice age in science class. That's when they decided to make the whole project into a television program.

Rehearsals began after a week's preparation of building models, drawing diagrams and researching additional information. Thursday's video-taping was produced and directed by the class members.

Students May Pay More for Driver Education Course

Fees for high school students taking driver-education courses may rise from $45 to $55 if Halton County Board of Education approves a motion made by its advisory vocational committee last week.

Costs of offering the course have risen for the board, and the committee decided that the course must continue to be operated on a break-even basis.

"There should be no cost to the board," said O. A. Gilmore, superintendent of instruction.

"Since the course is not chosen by all the students, costs ought not to be borne by all the rate-payers. Fees must match the cost."

ATTITUDES
"Our in-class instruction is most valuable in changing attitudes," he said. "It's easy to teach the mechanics of driving, but it's difficult to change attitudes."

Students are given about 25 hours of classroom instruction, eight hours behind the wheel and 16 hours of observing other students drive, Gilmore said.

Committee members noted that students who take the course pay lower insurance rates than other young drivers, which more than defrays the costs of the course.

REJECT
Regardless of low insurance rates, said committee chairman Len Crosier, "the idea is to make the student a safe driver, not to save him money."

The committee totally rejected the idea of subsidizing the course.

"The board is right at the provincial ceiling on expenditures now," said Gilmore. "We'd have to stop doing something else in order to subsidize driver education."
