

Resource Conference Where the Action Was

Centennial school gym was lined with activity as second year cubs of North Halton District, formerly known as Georgetown District, attended a Resource Conference, Saturday. The packs were from Georgetown, Acton, Ballinafad, Glen Williams, Limehouse, Norval, and Scotch Block. After registrations, David Strudwick opened the conference and called on Michael Collaghan to lead the grand howl. Gordon Douglas, District Commissioner, welcomed the gathering on behalf of himself, and Reverend Peter Barrow led the conference in a prayer.

DISPLAYS
The cubs were broken up into small groups, rotating to the different resource displays which outlined the perimeter of the gym. Each group spent about half hour, learning about paper sculpture by Wray Youmans, his daughter Mrs. Barbara Clark and Bruce Youmans; rope making by Jack Layman; "N" scale trains by Jim Colter and Duncan Watt; telephones by Frank Tyrrell; telegraph system by Bob and Colin Johnson; leather craft by Steve Thompson; coins by Jim Hayes; and stamps by Ross Colter.

ORGANIZERS
This conference was organized by Mrs. Jean Layman and William Schreiber. Mrs. Darlene Barrager and Mrs. Terry Colter led in a sing song. Games were played under the leadership of Ted Peck, Forbes Cole, Penny Fox and Rod Horton.
Other leaders helping were Rick Brown; Mrs. Elaine Hanna; David Hanna; Mrs. Evelyn Owen; John Hayes; Jack Beer; Marie Fendley; Wayne Gordon; Karen Cole and Lynn O'Connor.
Lunch and refreshments were served by the Glen Williams Committee under the convensorship of Mrs. Walters. The conference was closed by Gordon Douglas.

Budding Green Countryside Greeted Show Tour Winners

An early spring, a budding green countryside and a way of life she left over 20 years ago, greeted Mrs. Maureen Mellor and her young daughter Susan, as they arrived in Britain, the winners of The Herald's London Super Show Tour contest.
On February 23, they left Toronto International Airport for 13 days in England. The departure was supposed to take place on the 22nd, but a cancellation because of an airline labour strike, shortened the trip by one day. The passengers were booked into the Skyline Hotel, Toronto, and left the following day.

While in Britain they stayed at the Royal Scot Hotel in London. Mrs. Mellor visited relatives at Welling Garden City 20 miles outside of London, two sisters-in-law and a brother.
ASCARCE LUXURY
Mrs. Mellor's daughter Susan wanted a hamburger, but this North American luxury was not to be found in London, unless advertised "American Style Hamburgers." Susan had to settle for a hamburger patty on an open sandwich.

Two shows were seen, "The Unknown Soldier and his Wife," and "Lloyd George Knew My Father." Trafalgar Square, the zoo, and National Gallery places frequented by tourists were not missed, and Buckingham Palace did not yield a glimpse of the Queen.
BOMB SCARES
The day before their departure for home they were walking in Whitehall and Scotland Yard. places the newspapers reported bomb scares on the following day. On the way to the airport in a bus, Mrs. Mellor reported sitting across from famous British performer Tommy Steele, who for some odd reason wasn't attracting attention.
Leaving the spring time barrage of fruit trees and compact landscapes, Mrs. Mellor and daughter returned home last Thursday afternoon.

Was Bookkeeper for Georgetown Business

Ellen May McEnery, widow of William P. McEnery, died March 1 in St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph. She was 84. Born in Proton Township, daughter of John and Susan Robson, she was the last member of a family of seven girls and two boys.
After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. McEnery farmed in the Ballinafad district until his death in 1927. She was a member of Ballinafad United Church.
For a number of years, she was employed as bookkeeper for W. H. Kentner & Son in Georgetown, and later Hall's Hardware in Guelph. Retiring in 1960, she made her home with her daughter near Guelph.
She leaves one son, Jesse of Ballinafad, daughters Mrs. Stanley Sinclair (Pearl), Guelph and Mrs. Norman Sinclair (Alma), Ballinafad; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.
Funeral service at the Rumley-Shoemaker Funeral Home, Acton, March 3 was conducted by Rev. Kelvin

Johnston of Ballinafad United Church. Pallbearers were six grandsons, Bill, Mac, Alan and Brian Sinclair, John Pearson and Paul Hamilton. Interment was in Fairview Cemetery, Acton.
