the audience to contribute when an appropriate container, a garbage can was passed around. "We'll recycle the money and shoot it back at Indusmin," he stated.

He stressed there were alternatives to dumping, and told of a recycling plant and incinerator in operation in Franklin, Ohio, where after the recycling material is sorted, the remainder is mixed with sewage and industrial waste and fired in a burner, creating energy. He claimed the effluent had tested harmless and inert. He told the group the film was available free.

AFRAID OF NUMBERS
"We can fight city hall, Anglo Pulp and Paper and Falconbridge Nickel. If there are enough of us, politicians are afraid of numbers," he contended.

Johnson said they had the support of Naasagaweya council, Esqueving council, the Limehouse Women's Institute and the North Esqueving Ratepayers Association. He read a brief letter of support signed by Dennison Denny.

president of the North Halton Ratepayers Association, in which he voiced their concern about the water, and urged the investigation of practical uses of garbage.

Bruce McClure of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said his organization supported anything GUARD could do.

BE MILITANT
"Let's be militant," shouted Mrs. Sheila O'Rourke, "that's the only way you get attention." Graham Ripley, an unsuccessful candidate for Ward 3 in Georgetown, pointed out

Georgetown's water came from wells, and, claimed any deep well could be contaminated. "If the garbage is found to be a hazard later, how could all that garbage be removed from Indusmin," he asked.

RESOLUTION
The meeting unanimously passed a resolution presented by Ric Symmes, saying they were unalterably opposed to the scheme, and sent copies to Hon. James Auld, Minister of Environment, and members of parliament. Jim Snow, George Kerr and Terry O'Connor.

Bob Jones Named President of Halton Riding Conservatives

Two hundred Progressive Conservative party members from Oakville, Milton, Georgetown, Acton, and Erin met at Percy Merry School in north Oakville, March 8, to elect the 1973 officers of their riding association. Fran Baines, wife of Terry Baines member of the law firm of Helson, Baines, and Langdon at 3 Mill Street, Georgetown, was acclaimed (Gerry) Large was elected secretary.

John Ham, an Oakville lawyer, supported by O'Connor and Jones - beat Jim Muir for the post of first vice-president. Also, Phyllis Ferrier another O'Connor campaign worker was acclaimed as second vice-president.
John Shadbolt from Acton was elected third vice-president.

LAST OFFICE
The North Oakville area was the only presidential contest, all other area presidents were acclaimed. It was another O'Connor Campaign worker, Peter Pritchard, who beat out Erwin Szebek for the post of North Oakville area president. Bill Humphreys the veteran treasurer for the Halton Progressive Conservative Association lost his office to Dorothy Chamberlin. Dorothy says, "More social activities are needed between elections, to keep party members involved, to make them happy they belong to the party".

NOT FAMILIAR
Bill Humphreys who ran "as the voice of experience" in the election, stated at the meeting that he used to be able to come to party meetings and recognize every face. Now he can't anymore.

Other area presidents elected to office: Dorene Pierce for Milton; Rick Clare, Ralph Young and Mel Thorn for the respective areas of east central and west Oakville; Gale Malby for Acton; and Norm Nixon for the Erin area. Jim Snow had about 800-900 workers during his last provincial campaign. Jones says O'Connor had 2,000 workers available last fall. That means a lot of new faces.

The Lafayette Escadrille was a group of American aviators in the French air service in World War I.

William Johnson, left, was elected chairman of GUARD, Thursday. With him are his executive Casey Bos, Rick Sales, Fred Brooks and Mrs. Andy Stull.

Ballinafad Village Area Abounds With Arts, Crafts Talent

There was a wonderful response to the request for women to bring their arts and crafts to the open meeting of the W.I. The March meeting was held at the community centre, on Wednesday afternoon of last week. It was surprising to see there was so much talent in a comparatively small area.

Hooked rugs, oil paintings, crewel embroidery and various other hand crafts were on display. One arrangement that caused a considerable amount of interest was various articles of shapes and sizes of ceramic sculpture the work of Mrs. G. Holt, a resident of Ballinafad.

President, Mrs. Wm. McLean called the meeting to order and welcomed all the visitors. Just the necessary business was dealt with, after which the convener of education and cultural activities, Mrs. Jesse McEnery was called upon to introduce the guest speaker Mr. Paul Bennett of Toronto, who is Director of Canadian Guild of Crafts.

Mrs. Bennett was an interesting speaker. He brought along several articles of different crafts and commented on each one. He informed the audience that in July and August of 1974 there was to be a world conference of crafts to take place in Toronto and 1,500 delegates were expected to attend. There would also be an exhibition of crafts at the same time to which the public would be invited.

Mrs. Leo Jamieson thanked the speaker and said they had indeed been privileged to have had him present. Mrs. Given and Mrs. Jamieson assisted Mrs. McEnery in serving a cup of tea.

attended the funeral of his cousin Mr. Gord Marshall.

Several couples from the community attended the liberal dance in the Legion Hall at Erin on Saturday night.

Myrna Snow presided at the 4-H Home-making Club when they met on Tuesday evening at the community centre. Several of the girls showed interest in taking the garden club course this year. Record books are to be purchased and will be available for next meeting night at a cost of 20c for each girl.

Linda O'Connor and her assistant Sheila Foster demonstrated the correct way to apply an invisible zipper, to apply elastic to a waist band and a discussion took place on making button holes and sewing on buttons. The group work consisted of their dress review.
