

Stewarttown Students Take St. John Course

A number of students recently completed the St. John Ambulance Emergency First Aid Course. This consists of a minimum of eight hours of training, and ran as a fall and winter elective course at Stewarttown Senior Public School.

These students exceeded these number of hours. With this training they are quite able to take care of an injured school chum, a member of their family or an accident victim, until medical aid is available. The aim of the course is primarily to "Help Save a Life".

The course also has made the students aware of how to prevent accidents before they actually happen. The students covered theory and practical work and in the practical line they were great actors and actresses. They covered how to give artificial respiration, control bleeding and treat shock, burns, frostbite and fractures.

After passing their examination they now serve in pairs, on a rotating basis, at noon break in the Health Room of Stewarttown school.

One student had taken the course before, another student is now a Candystriper, and another has received his Boy Scout Gold First Aid Badge.

Tree Planting Marks Start Of Halton's Provincial Park

The sun was shining and everybody was smiling Thursday as three provincial MPPs planted three Canadian maple trees to mark the official beginning of stage one, phase one of the 2,000-acre Bronte Creek Provincial Park.

The trees were planted by Halton East MPP and minister of government services James Snow, Halton West MPP and provincial justice secretary George Kerr, and minister of natural resources Leo Bernier. George Kerr congratulated all those who had brought the park up to Thursday's official beginning.

"Although they have been buying land like drunken sailors, I'm sure that we'll thank them in the future", he said.

CROWD OF 100
Speaking to the crowd of about a hundred attending the ceremony, Snow pointed out that 75 percent of the park was in his riding. He reminded the people that the idea for the park originated in 1958, when a committee was set up to try to establish a 500-acre park in the area.

Snow said this first urban provincial park was an attempt to bring parks to the people, rather than building roads to take the people to the parks in northern Ontario.

2,000 ACRES
He said the idea of the park grew until it had assumed the present size, planned at roughly 2,000 acres.

"There are still a few parcels of land outstanding, but we expect that all the land will have been bought in the near future", he said.

"I hope that in years to come this park will extend all the way from the Bronte harbor to the headwaters of the creek at the Niagara escarpment", he concluded.

THE FINEST
Leo Bernier, whose ministry administers the provincial parks system, told the crowd that the 117 parks in the system contained over 10 million acres.

"Our provincial park system is perhaps the finest in Canada and I feel it is equal to if not better than the national Parks system which is administered from that little place on the Ottawa River", he said.

THREE MILLION
The park will be completed in about five years, said Jim Keenan, parks branch director for the ministry of natural resources. It will serve as a recreation area for more than three million people living in the area.

The park is located near the junction of Highway 25 and the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Family Gave Name To Harrison School

Member of a family which contributed greatly to Georgetown's education and civic life, Miss Hazel Harrison died at Halton Centennial Manor, Milton, March 10.

Her father was principal of Chapel Street School, the only elementary school in town in the early part of the century. Miss Harrison also trained as a teacher, and when she retired in 1950, she had taught for 41 years at the school.

Miss Harrison and her mother, Percy B. Harrison, lived on Charles Street until they sold their home a few years ago to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hassett and moved to Milton. He was town clerk and treasurer, and secretary of the school board for many years. Harrison Public School is named for the family.

She was born in Georgetown, daughter of Robert Edward Harrison and Sarah Bridgman, attended public and high school here, Milton Model School, and graduated from Toronto Normal School.

She taught in Mount Dennis, Weston and Glen Williams, before returning to become a long-time member of her home school. From 1929 to 1936, she was in charge of music at the school, sharing these duties for five more years with Mrs. James F. Evans. She was a member of St. John's United Church.

Predeceased by her brother, Miss Harrison leaves one sister, Edna, Mrs. J. M. McKinlay, 10 Shaughnessy Blvd., Willowdale.

Rev. Harold Martin conducted the funeral service at the McClure-Jones Funeral Home, and interment was in

Storm No Deterrent 'Fad Dance Goes On

Friday evening was the first dance of the revised Ballinafad Teen Town. Live music was provided by a local group, "The Groundings". Future dances will be organized through the co-operation of the teens in the area and there will be a meeting Monday to discuss future plans for these parties. Anyone interested is welcome to attend. The group of young folk said "The music was great" and all had a good time.

The older folk did not fare so good weather-wise for their scheduled St. Patrick's dance on Saturday night. The blizzard and road conditions did not stop the monthly dance from going on. Music was supplied by "Scarbrough". The disc jockey arrived a bit late but soon set up and provided excellent music. Many local patrons of the dance arrived late, after braving the storm and road conditions. Means of transportation that night included walking, snowmobiling, by tractor and Mr. Sanderson came to the rescue of the eighth line couples by providing curb service with his cattle truck. There were about 80 in attendance and all report a jolly good time.

The U.C.W. have completed the quilt set up at Mrs. Eveline Snow's home last week.

Mrs. Morley Shortill entertained several neighbourhood ladies and friends to a Copper Craft party at her home in the village Wednesday evening of last week.

Sorry to hear Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lawr were involved in an accident last week. The driver of a car failed to stop at a red light at the 4th Line and Highway 7. Mr. Lawr's car was badly damaged but luckily the passengers got off with a shaking up.

Old man winter coming back with a vengeance over the weekend played havoc with the already terrible soft roads. The wet snow and ice made the travelling almost impossible for those living off the highway.

School children are enjoying the winter holiday from their studies this week. Several high school students are vacationing abroad. A large number from Erin have gone to Rome, and the Acton group are enjoying a ten day holiday in Spain.

The 4-H Home-Making girls met with their leaders at the Community Centre on Tuesday evening of last week. The group were shown how to make a sailor's hem and other ways of making hems were discussed. The girls were then told to do a sample of the sailor's hem. Achievement day plans included the construction of paper flowers as part of the scenery for the fashion show. The meeting ended by the commentaries being read and a rehearsal of the dress review.

Despite the wet, foggy weather last Wednesday afternoon, over 30 preschoolers and their mothers turned out for "Story-time" at the Com-

Worship was in charge of Mrs. Clayton Allen, on the starring Indians, with scripture from the 16th chapter of Luke. The program, in charge of Mrs. Ward Brownridge, was on the green revolution, and told about farm life in India. They look upon their land as a gift from God and they are willing workers and now produce enough to feed themselves.

Mrs. John McNabb gave the courtesies, and after the meeting hostesses Mrs. Robert Cunningham and Mrs. John Bellbody served lunch.

Well, March 21 has gone and we are into spring now. Did we have much winter? We sure had lots of fog and rain. Saw our first robin on March 15. He must have got a surprise to see winter roaring back in with Saturday's snow storm and high winds.
